Denial Made City Pays on Town Highways May Not Need Stadium Grounds for New School

Relocation of Building Is Considered in Study Purchase of Adjoining Property Seen Quicker for Solving Student Problem

A slight change in the location of the proposed junior high school in the Dietz Stadium section may be in the making, it was disclosed Thursday night at a meeting of the Kingston Board of Education.

The board discussed the feasibility of setting the school in such a way at the stadium site that Forsyth Park property would not be required.

A slight relocation of the proposed 1,000-student structure for seventh, eighth and ninth grades could be achieved by purchase of certain adjoining properties, it was pointed out.

Would Cut Delay
Acquisition of this land would enable the board to proceed without undue delay to the construction of the new junior high school so vitally needed for Kingston's expanding student population.

Corporation Counsel James Abernethy has warned the board that to obtain permission to use a small parcel of Forsyth Park might be a long and complicated process.

It is the consensus of the board that "time is of the essence." If the building program can be expedited by purchase of adjacent private properties the board feels that such action might well be taken.

To Make Appraisals
An appraisal of contiguous properties will be made by impartial appraisers and the matter of purchase considered in consultation with city corporation counsel.

The proposed school, as now visualized, would rise on the slightly elevated land just beyond right and center field, thinking in terms of the stadium as a baseball diamond. The exact plan has not yet been decided—the shape of the school or how it will face.

Would Divide Authority
Corporation counsel has been requested to consult with architects in the preparation of a contract clarifying responsibility. The board feels that such responsibility should not be "divided" between the architect, Augustus R. Schrowang of Kingston, and his associate, Sherwood, Mills and Smith, specialists in school architecture.

The board wants "no divided authority in any way, shape or manner," President Robert Herzog pointed out. He explained that the two firms could work out details between them as to work load but should share a single and undivided responsibility.

State Approval Needed
It was also felt that the architects should complete preliminary plans, which would require about six weeks. The State Education Department must approve such preliminary plans.

It is the opinion of the state department that the board should take a deed to such properties at the proposed site as it needs, with an easement on the stadium by which the city would continue to use it for sporting and other events but would not build on the property, etc.

Plan to Start in Spring
The board hopes to begin construction of the proposed school by next spring.

It was explained to the board that architects had expressed the opinion it would be cheaper to build on private properties adjoining the stadium rather than on the Forsyth parcel under consideration.

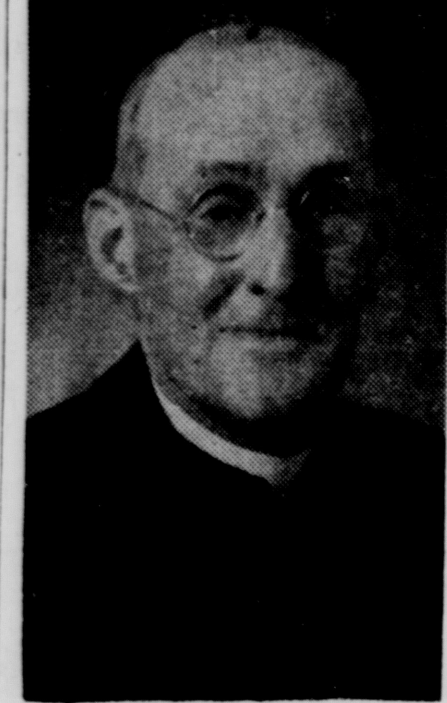

This communication reinforced the general feeling of the board that it should seriously consider purchasing such properties and thinking in terms of a slight relocation of the school structure.

KHS A Cappella Singers May Travel to South Carolina

The Kingston High School A Cappella choir, noted throughout the state for its splendid achievement under the direction of Leonard Stine, may perform in South Carolina if present plans materialize.

A former member and president of the local board of education, Clarence S. Rowland, well-known former resident of Kingston, now residing in Camden, S. C., a great admirer of the choir, is anxious to have the group come down in the near future. All expenses would be paid.

As the plan shapes up at the present time, the trip would be for six days—four for traveling and two for visiting and performance. Members of the choir would stay in private homes.

MSGR. M. J. DRURY
Feeney Replaces Msgr. Drury on Laboratory Board

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced the resignation of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury from the board of managers of the Kingston City Laboratory, and the appointment of Bernard A. Feeney, of 622 Delaware avenue, to succeed him.

Msgr. Drury, pastor of St. Mary's Church, and dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, has served on the board since June, 1940, and in a letter to Mayor Stang announcing his resignation, said, "I am taking this action because of my health."

Regrets Resignation
Mayor Stang, in a letter dated Oct. 5, accepted the resignation with regret, and thanked him for his long service on the board in behalf of the city.

Bernard A. Feeney, general manager of the Reliance Marine Transportation & Construction Corp., 615 Abel street, who succeeds Msgr. Drury, served on the Board of Education for 15 years, and was its president for five years. He is president of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, and is a member of Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus and Fourth Degree Assembly, and has served as vice president of the New York State Waterways Association.

Follows Doctor's Advice
Msgr. Drury, who in 1947, was promoted by Pope Pius XII from chaplain of the church to domestic prelate, which carries the title The Right Reverend, in his recent letter to Mayor Stang said:

"As per my conversation with you on the telephone relative to resigning as a member of the laboratory board, I wish to confirm my decision to make this resignation, with this letter. 'As you know, I have been a member of the laboratory board now for some years, and as you know also, I have not been too well. My doctor advises me to cut my work to the minimum, and for this reason, I wish to tender you my resignation as a member of the board.'

Air Force Gets IBM Machines

Dayton, O., Oct. 5 (AP)—The Air Force Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base announced Thursday that International Business Machines Corp., New York, has been awarded a contract for $5,658,594 for sale data processing equipment.

406 Have Speech Defects

Approximately 406 children in Grades 3-6 in the Kingston school system have speech defects ranging from very slight to very serious, Harry Anders, remedial speech teacher, reported to the local board of education Thursday night.

In a brief presentation to the board Mr. Anders, who came to Kingston schools this year from New York city, explained that of this number 263 should have some remedial help.

A total of 1,475 children in Grades 3-6 were screened by Mr. Anders.

Long, Slow Process

With some of the severely retarded children the remedial process must be long and slow, he said. In the eight elementary schools in which he has examined children in Grades 3-6 he found a number of different types of speech defects. He found seven stammerers or stutterers, two who were inarticulate due to muteness, 150 with articulatory defects, 59 with lateral lisps, 10 "jallers" (those who substitute the sound of "w" for "j" and "c"), 32 children in the "deez, dem and doz school," two with acute foreign accents, several with voice nasality due to cleft palates, several with "hoarse" voices, three with defects due to impaired hearing, 185 with malocclusions, usually associated with lisping, some with dental lisps, some tongue-tied, some with "gross disabilities" of one kind or another, etc.

Will Form Groups

Eighty-two of those tested have "multiple speech defects," Mr. Anders told the board. In treatment of those with speech defects Mr. Anders said he would break down into groups. He plans to spend perhaps half a day at certain local schools and three-quarters of a day or a whole day at others. Certain special cases must be handled individually.

He said that when he worked in New York city the schools had an affiliation with Mt. Sinai Hospital in work with certain organic defects. He plans to ex-

Kingston Voters May Get Ballots On Consolidation

If the rural areas favor consolidation the Kingston Board of Education will submit the proposition to a referendum of eligible voters of the Kingston School District, according to a resolution adopted Thursday night by the board.

The resolution follows: "Whereas the Kingston Board of Education has been considering the question of Greater City Consolidation for some time and Whereas our board of education has participated in the state consolidation survey made by area school representatives held in Albany during January, 1956, and

Whereas the Greater Kingston School District Committee, Kingston Board of Education, has rendered an exhaustive report to the Board of Education, which they have under careful study, and

"Whereas the rural area about Kingston has appointed a series of committees for the purpose of informing the area voters concerning the provisions of the plan,

"Be it resolved that the Kingston Board of Education advise the general chairman of the rural consolidation committee and the district school superintendents administratively responsible that the Kingston Schools are:

Ulster PO Will Open Ready for Business Saturday Morning

The Albany avenue extension branch post office located in the store of Mrs. Rose P. Peters about 1,000 feet north of the Kingston city line in the town of Ulster will open for business Saturday morning.

Residents of this rapidly growing area north of Kingston will have convenient postal service daily after that date. The post office branch, which is known as a contract office, will be open Saturdays from 8 a. m. to noon and on other week days from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the issuance of money orders, sale of stamps, mailing and registration of letters, insurance of packages and similar service. There will be no boxes at the branch office.

Located in Store

Announcement of the opening of the branch contract office was made by Acting Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk of Kingston under whose jurisdiction the office will operate. Technically known as 219 Albany avenue extension, the office is located in the store adjacent to the home of Mrs. Peters on the eastern side of Albany avenue extension approximately a quarter of a mile from the city limits. The area served by the branch office now has city delivery of mail and there will be no personal postal boxes available at the station.

An application was made some time ago for a branch office in the locality, which is one of the fastest growing areas of the county. The application was forwarded to the postal authorities and approved. Bids were solicited for the contract sub-station and Mrs. Peters, who operates a store, was awarded the contract.

New Service Starts

Another postal service improvement for residents of the Lake Katrine-Ruby area has been inaugurated. Some time ago Congressman J. Ernest Wharton caused an investigation to be commenced toward improved mail delivery service to patrons of the Star route operating out of the Lake Katrine office to Ruby.

Mail will now be picked up at (Continued on Page 6, Col. 8)

Marine Band Is Enjoyed by 2,500

The United States Marine Corps Band pleased 1,500 students at the Kate Walton Field House Thursday afternoon and more than 1,000 adults in the evening with concerts suitable to all musical tastes.

Technical Sergeant Bramwell Smith was called on for two cornet encores at the night concert. Narrations by William Jones were extremely popular.

Appearance of the 158-year-old band was sponsored by Joyce-Schrick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League. It was the band's second Kingston date, it having played here in 1954.

Decision Reserved on ABC Rule Licensees to File Briefs in Closing Case on Oct. 9

Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth today reserved decision on a directive by the Ulster County Alcohol Beverage Control Board changing closing hours of places where alcoholic beverages are sold from 3 a. m. to 1 a. m., and continued a temporary stay.

A change in closing hours was directed by the county ABC board on July 27, effective Oct. 1. Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schrick last Friday signed a temporary stay order. The show cause order was returnable before a special term of Supreme Court here today.

Judge Elsworth's reserved decision permits restaurants, night clubs and grills selling alcoholic beverages to remain open until 3 a. m. under the temporary stay order.

Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, representing eight proprietors and "all other liquor licensees similarly situated" who brought the action against the local ABC board, was given until Tuesday, Oct. 9 to file briefs. The attorney general's office, which represented the local ABC board, has until Thursday, Oct. 11 to reply.

The action against the local board was brought by proprietors of Tropical Inn, the Barn, Phoenix Hotel, Kirkland Hotel, Spindler's, Cloverleaf Inn, Alpine Inn, Cedar Rest and for "all liquor licensees similarly situated."

The stay is directed against Lawrence M. Jensen and Harry Howard, members of the local ABC board, and also the Commissioner of the State Liquor Authority in Albany.

Following the local ABC board's directive July 27 to change the closing hours from 3 a. m. to 1 a. m., the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers' Association named a committee, headed by Robert E. Teetsel of the Barn, to protest the change.

The application for a stay admits the Local ABC board has a statutory right to regulate hours of closing but the petitioners contend the 3 a. m. closing regulation was in effect 23 years during the time the ABC board has had power to regulate closing hours.

They contend that after that long period no hearing has been held, no investigation made upon which to base a change in the closing hours and the action of the board is "arbitrary" and is an abuse of discretion without proof of need.

The petitioners contend that there should be justification of the board's action through orderly procedure and that no hearings, investigation or other (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7)

Eckert Says Ryan Council Charge False, Democrats Offer Defense

Alderman Told to Check Figures: Kingston Quota Is $139,619 on County Highways; Towns' Share $541,855

Town roads in the county of Ulster do not receive "one red cent" for maintenance from city taxpayers, Supervisor Edward Eckert (R) of the town of Esopus said at a meeting of the board of supervisors Thursday evening.

He charged that a statement made by Alderman James K. Ryan (D) of the tenth ward at

Equipment Approved By Board

Purchase of seven or eight additional trucks and two roadside mowers for use on the county highways was advocated by the County Superintendent of Highways Roland H. Green in a program to reduce the amount of money which is being spent annually for rental of equipment.

In 1955 the county highway department spent about $80,000 for hire of additional necessary equipment, he said.

An item of $35,000 which had been approved for purchase of a portable crusher and screener, Green said could be diverted to the purchase of the trucks and mowers to better advantage. He suggested the $35,000 appropriation be transferred to the truck and mower fund and that an unexpended balance of $8,888 be made available for the purchase of the more useful equipment.

Cites Reduction

If the $43,000 fund is made available for the purchase of additional trucks and the two mowers, he reported the cost of rental machinery would be reduced by 70 per cent. On motion the request was approved.

A request for $75,000 to cover the cost of snow removal was also received from the county superintendent and the board made available the sum of $30,000 to cover the estimated cost up until the time refunds are received from the state.

Vacancy for Nurse

The board also adopted a resolution changing the classification of an employee for the County Health Department. There exists a vacancy on the public health nurse staff. An opportunity exists to secure the services of a "nurse in training" and the board adopted a resolution creating the classification in order that her services may be secured.

Authority for attendance at the State Civil Service conference was granted to Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the Ulster County board, and permission was granted Edmund U. Burhans and his assistant to attend the State Probation Officers conference at Elmira on October 14-17.

Board Will Meet Monthly

The Ulster County Board of Supervisors which for years has held no regular meetings, meeting at various times when sufficient business was ready to warrant a meeting, will in the future hold regular monthly meetings.

At an adjourned meeting Thursday evening a resolution was unanimously approved fixing the second Thursday of each month as the regular meeting night, except in January when under the law the board must meet and organize within eight days after the new year.

The meetings will be called at 8 o'clock, the time at which sessions have previously been called but seldom got under way.

The custom in the past has been to call the meetings for 8 p. m. with a caucus at 7:30. The caucuses invariably have run far past the 8 p. m. hour for convening the session.

Opposition Seen On R-299 Change

Objection to a proposed realignment of a section of Route 299, Highland-New Paltz road, is expected to be voiced next Tuesday at a hearing before the State Department of Public Works in Highland. The objection will be from persons residing on the present route who feel access to their property will be hampered if the proposed alignment is approved.

The proposed new alignment is being offered to give better access to Thruway for heavy traffic moving from the east side of the river over the Mid-Hudson bridge and from local feeders.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposal which calls for a new alignment south of the present route to the west and north of the present alignment along the easterly section of Route 299 to Route 9-W about a mile above the village of Highland.

Supervisor John J. Gaffney of the Town of Lloyd said a brief would be filed at the public hearing in behalf of these people stating their objection to the realignment and how the proposed route would eliminate access to certain of the properties.

Report Liquor Taken From Station Wagon

Two cases of Scotch whiskey were reported taken from a station wagon here yesterday.

Police were notified yesterday afternoon that the whiskey valued at $114 had been taken from a station wagon used by William J. Hopper, of 620 Morris street, Albany, a McKesson & Robbins salesman.

The theft was noticed while the vehicle was parked on Fair near John street. Entrance was apparently gained through the forcing of a left front window. A right door window was also cracked, the police report said.

Points to Unanimous Vote

Supervisor Carroll said the matter would be submitted to (Continued on Page 6, Col. 5)

Yankees Lead Dodgers, 6-0 On Yogi Berra's Grand Slam

Brooklyn, Oct. 5 (AP)—Yogi Berra slammed a home run over the screen in right field with the bases loaded in the second inning of the World Series today to give the New York Yankees a 6-0 lead over Brooklyn in the second game. The blast, about 400 feet into a parking lot across Bedford avenue, knocked starter Don Newcombe out of the box and Ed Roebuck came on to pitch for the Dodgers.

Singles by Enos Slaughter and Joe Collins, sandwiched around a walk to Yogi Berra gave the New York Yankees a 1-0 lead after one inning. A capacity crowd of more than 34,000 included Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President, who sat in the same box occupied by President Eisenhower for the first game.

The Yankees scored one run in the first inning. With one away Slaughter singled, and after Mantle flied out, moved to second on a walk to Berra. Collins then singled sharply through the box, scoring Slaughter, but Bauer ended the inning by popping to Gilliam.

Brooklyn failed to score in the first although Larsen walked Gilliam and Snider. Robinson, however, ended the threat by bouncing to Martin at third, who stepped on the bag to force Gilliam and then threw to first for the double play.

Meeting Slated To Discuss Vets Retirement

Pay, promotion and liberal retirement benefits that can be obtained through participation in the Air Force Reserve will be explained to former servicemen in the Kingston area, Wednesday, Oct. 10. The meeting, open to interested former servicemen of all branches, will get underway at 8 p. m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, 552 Delaware avenue.

Representatives from the 9059th Air Reserve Group, Newburgh, commanded by Lt. Col. Richard W. Platt, will outline the training program and benefits available to reservists, including maintenance of skills, training assemblies, paid two week active duty tours, free insurance, liberal retirement pay, promotion and numerous other benefits.

Current plans of the 9059th Air Reserve Group call for establishment of additional training flights to meet regularly in the Kingston area. Similar flights which meet on the average of two evenings a month for training and pay are now organized in the area under jurisdiction of the Newburgh Air Reserve Center.

Prior service personnel from any branch of the service may enroll in the grade held at the time of discharge. Certain personnel who have achieved additional qualifications may enroll in a higher grade. In order to determine the rank in which they may enlist veterans are requested to bring all available service records.

Promotion comes rapidly to reservists who participate in the program and there are additional opportunities for appointment to commissioned and warrant status for especially well qualified men.

It is estimated there will be 81,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States by 1965.

Death in Juror's Family Problem In Murder Case

Philadelphia, Oct. 5 (AP)—The death of the grandmother of a juror in the murder trial of Frank J. Ellsworth has posed a problem for judge, jury and opposing counsel.

Should the juror attend the funeral alone, should she be excused from further service, or should all 12 jurors attend the funeral?

Judge Joseph Sloane assigned a law clerk yesterday to do some legal digging on the question.

It arose with the announcement that the grandmother of Miss Laraine T. Jaskolka had died. The grandmother was Mrs. Barbara Baumgartner. Miss Jaskolka asked to be excused from jury duty for the funeral Saturday.

Defense Counsel Objected

Judge Sloane at first said he felt it might be all right for Miss Jaskolka to go alone and return to jury duty. Defense counsel Paul Yermish objected.

This left the question of whether Miss Jaskolka should be excused from further duty or whether the entire jury would have to attend the funeral.

Miss Jaskolka has been hearing testimony concerning the murder of Mrs. Lulubel Rossman, 76, a wealthy widow found strangled in her hotel apartment July 4, 1955.

Ellsworth, of Tampa, Fla., and Omaha, Neb., is one of four men originally accused of the murder and of robbing Mrs. Rossman of some $200,000.

STRANGE HARVEST—Ronnie Munn, owner of the Bar Nunn ranch near Casper, Wyo., looks over his stable broom, which turns green overnight with grain sprouting like a lawn in spring. Reason for the strange crop is that farm hands wet the broom and sweep the barn floors, thereby picking up spilled grains which sprout in the damp broom.

Ambassador Says Japan to Curb Flood of Goods

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—Japanese Ambassador Masayuki Tani said today his country has adopted new antidumping policies designed to avoid undue friction with other nations while expanding export markets.

In a speech prepared for the annual conference of the Far East-America Council of Commerce and Industry, he cited as evidence of the policy Japan's pledge to limit exports of cotton textiles to the United States.

Outlines Steps

Tani said Japan, facing a need to build up its industrial and competitive position in the world economy, will employ these export guidelines:

1. Self restraint, to insure orderly trade growth which will adjust to conditions in importing countries.
2. Top priority to diversification of Japan's exports to avoid disruption of foreign markets which might result from sudden increases in imports of a single product. "In this way over-all trade may grow without detriment to a single country or to segments of industry in other countries," he said.

3. Diversification of export markets, particularly in free Asia. Tani said this will help stabilize Japan's export trade by avoiding undue dependence upon a particular market.

Will Take Time

"It is obvious we cannot accomplish these objectives overnight," Tani said. "But it is earnestly hoped that our efforts will in time allay the fears of some segments of industry in this country regarding Japanese trade."

Tani said the first two points of the program were "well reflected" in Japan's Sept. 27 note agreeing to hold its cotton exports to this country at the 1955 level of trade, starting in 1957 and lasting over a period of years.

Explosion Wrecks Pennsy Oil Tanks

Warren, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—An explosion, followed by fire, wrecked several 2,000 gallon partly filled oil tanks early today at the sprawling plant of the United Refining Co. on the eastern outskirts of this western Pennsylvania town near the New York state border.

Fire Chief James Tridico said no one was injured. Last December 22, one fireman was killed and $500,000 damage resulted from an explosion and fire at the plant.

Today's damage will be relatively small, a company spokesman said. He said cause of the blast could not be determined.

The fire was confined to the small tanks which were surrounded by cement revetments. These helped stop the spread of the blaze to large tanks nearby.

New Offensive Is Seen Addition to Red Arms Threat

Old Point Comfort, Va., Oct. 5 (AP)—A State Department official said today the Russians' political and economic offensive "is not a substitute for their military threat, but is in addition to the military threat."

For that reason, said C. Burke Elbrick, acting assistant secretary of state for European affairs, the first major problem of the North Atlantic allies is to maintain and improve their defenses "as an indispensable insurance policy against aggression."

Elbrick said in a speech prepared for the annual Virginia world trade conference that North America and Europe in alliance can protect themselves "against any foreseeable combination of hostile powers, but the task might well prove insuperable for either acting alone."

Like Friction

Elbrick said the Russians are looking for chances to exploit frictions among the western allies and that "they will lose no chance to incite division and weaken the free world."

"This strategy," he went on, "will be supplemented by subtle economic pressures and enticements. Because the Russian economy is completely controlled by the state, it can and frequently is used for purely political purposes. Offers of Soviet markets and raw materials sometimes look attractive to the hard pressed western Europeans despite their awareness of the motives that underlie them.

"The United States can afford to ignore Soviet economic overtures but our European friends cannot always do so."

"We believe that, because of their awareness of the danger of Soviet blandishments, the western Europeans will take further steps toward economic integration, increased productivity and reduced trade barriers so that the Soviet economic offensive, the real purpose of which is to break up the unity of the Atlantic community, will have to be abandoned."

WARNING: ROUGH ROAD AHEAD

When Congress enacted the $33.8 billion highway program this year, it was properly hailed as the first truly modern road plan of the postwar era, and a development certain to add much substance to the nation's prosperity.

Nothing has happened to alter his view of it, but certain facts are emerging which demonstrate rather forcefully that in this instance—as in so many—the lawmakers did not exactly “pass a miracle.”

In other words, the business of translating this huge program into reality is subject to many important pitfalls. All kinds of detailed difficulties must be surmounted before major progress can be expected.

Traffic engineers meeting recently in San Francisco laid some of the problems out.

Some states haven't got the necessary legislative authority for cooperation in the program. In most cases their legislatures don't meet until 1957 or later, hence delays on this score are strongly indicated.

The key feature of the program is the 41,000-mile interstate road network, yet factual data are lacking even for the beginning phases of this effort. States and communities as a whole do not have enough spadework completed on possible highway locations, problems involved in land acquisition, and so on.

Sometimes these troubles can be met swiftly, but not always. Chicago needed 13 years to get all the land for its Congress street superhighway.

Warnings have gone out that there may not be enough traffic engineers around to do the job. Government pay scales aren't high enough to attract the needed manpower. Unless a pay boost comes in many cases, the problem may not be licked.

In addition there are the natural delays that follow from having to deal with many, many local and state governments, often within a limited geographic area. To get agreement on plans and routes can be almost as hard as winning Soviet approval of a proposition in the United Nations.

The engineers at San Francisco questioned, too, whether sufficient public support can be mustered for some parts of the vast project. Without that backing, important gaps in the 41,000-mile web might exist for years.

The program is projected, of course, over a 13-year period. But it will take much longer than that if there is not a spirited attack now on the hard-nut obstacles looming in its path.

Washington has waved a $33.8 billion wand, but it has wrought no magic. Ahead is tough, grubby work at the state, regional and local level.

The highway program today is a bright promise. Only American citizens in every corner of the land can make it a fact.

Every American has the right not to vote, if that's the way he feels, but that invalidates his right to complain—and who wants to give that up?

HIDDEN ILLNESS

It is possible to be sick and not know it. Dr. Charles E. Thompson, a Chicago physician, told the American Management Association's fall personnel conference that of 500 business executives recently examined, only 8 per cent were free from some disease.

The lucky ones were all under 40 years of age. Of the others, one in every 10 had some unexpected heart defect. One out of nine had insufficient thyroid secretions, a condition that may lead to hardening of the arteries. Two per cent had cancer.

Evidently people are not always the best judges of their own physical state. The situation should prompt more adults to have periodical physical examinations, lest in later life they come up with some unexpected serious malady.

Anyone who has to listen to long-winded orators may have trouble understanding the cotton surplus.

The atom: Never have so many disagreed so much about such a little thing.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE FUNDAMENTAL ISSUE

The “Beaumont, Texas, Enterprise” has stated the issues of this campaign better than I have seen it elsewhere:

“Just what is the one big issue of this year's presidential and congressional campaigns? It is an ‘issue’ neither Republican nor Democratic politicians care to discuss. The one big ‘issue’ of the 1956 struggle between the Democratic and Republican Parties is this: The Republicans want to stay in power, the Democrats want to get back in power.”

No matter what Adlai Stevenson, Estes Kefauver or Harry Truman say for the Democrats, what it all comes down to is that they want to get back into the White House; and no matter what Dwight D. Eisenhower or Richard Nixon say about great issues, what they want is to stay in the White House and all that pertains thereto. But there is more to the election than a President and a Vice President. The whole of the House of Representatives has to be elected and about one-third of the Senate. In most states, many local officials have to be elected.

The Republicans believe that Ike Eisenhower will be elected. They also recognize that he is in a little trouble; that he will not have anything like the vote that he gained in 1952. The Democrats, on the other hand, are surprised that Stevenson is running so much better than he did in 1952. He is less the quipster and more the politician. The Democrats who six months ago thought that they had no chance at all, now believe that the presidential election, in terms of electoral votes, will be tight and that if California or New York go Democratic, Stevenson might make it. The Democrats believe that they have made unexpected strides in Pennsylvania and Michigan and they think that they can make progress in Massachusetts.

When it comes to the Congress, the Democrats are almost certain that they will hold the seats they have and may even do better. The Republicans are worried about the Congress. Their trouble is that during the whole of the Eisenhower Administration, too little attention has been paid to state organizations and even to lower levels of politics. What count are patronage and honors. President Eisenhower, accustomed to the West Point career conception of the Army, has refused consistently to fire Democrats and to give their jobs to Republicans. He had no desire to institute the spoils system after 20 years of Roosevelt and Truman. That may be a wonderful ideal, but it did not build organization. The competition between the Republican Clubs and the Eisenhower Clubs has done no good, because whereas the Republicans have for 20 years kept the Party alive and going, the Eisenhower Clubs include many ex-Democrats and opportunists who were New Dealers when the New Deal was popular and who later hooked on to the Eisenhower bandwagon.

Eisenhower has attracted new elements to the Republican Party, but not enough of them. The Republican Congressional candidates are therefore having a very tough time. Also the inexperienced geniuses from Madison Avenue who are spending much of the campaign money do not seem to realize that the best way to spend money in a political campaign is to have the local candidates do the spending. This is a very old experience.

The Democrats, on the other hand, have not only retained the strength of their local organizations but they have built powerful bridges with other organizations, the Liberal Party in New York, the A.F.L.-C.I.O., the A.D.A., the Farmers' Union, and there are others. It is true that some of these organizations, such as the A.D.A. may be as unpopular with Democrats as with Republicans, but they have an effective propaganda operation that can make votes in particular areas. To a Republican, the A.D.A. is reprehensible.

The Republicans had similar allied groups among the various anti-Communist and Right Wing organizations, many of whom centered about the leadership of Senator Joe McCarthy. The strength of much of this group has been dissipated, although not entirely. The result is that this element which has stood by the Republican Party since 1932 is now standing away from it as unwanted and no other groups have taken their place. While this may not interfere with the election of Eisenhower and Nixon, it is going to be tough on candidates for the Senate and the House of Representatives—very tough.

THE SHY CHILD

I quote very often from Public Affairs Pamphlets, published by the Public Affairs Committee which is a nonprofit educational organization, with headquarters at 22 East 38th street, New York 16, N. Y. I have invariably found them most helpful and wish to pass on their contents to my readers whenever possible. Individual copies are 25 cents with special quantity rates as low as 10 cents apiece on large orders and any readers interested may enquire at the address given above.

The latest one I have received is entitled “The Shy Child,” and begins, “My child doesn't make friends easily. At a school he stands on the sidelines, and he does not mix well with the children in the neighborhood.” This concern is often expressed by mothers to a teacher, to a friend, or to a guidance counselor, whose help they seek. Fathers become troubled too, but mothers are usually the first to notice undue shyness in a child.

Shyness does not appear all at once like measles; it has its own story as its roots are in the child's temperament (what he was born with) and in his history (what has happened to him in his short life).

Since parents “happen to him,” their feelings about him are part of his life story. The parents may see a certain amount of shyness as a virtue or they may view it as a threat to the child's later success in life. Just how they feel is probably the most powerful agent in determining the kind of person he turns out to be. For example a child may be shy because his parents expect too much of him; his mother wanted him to be the first child of his age in the block to be toilet trained, to be the smartest child in the class. His father may have bought him a football before he could walk. He becomes discouraged trying to live up to their expectations and retreats from the fray.

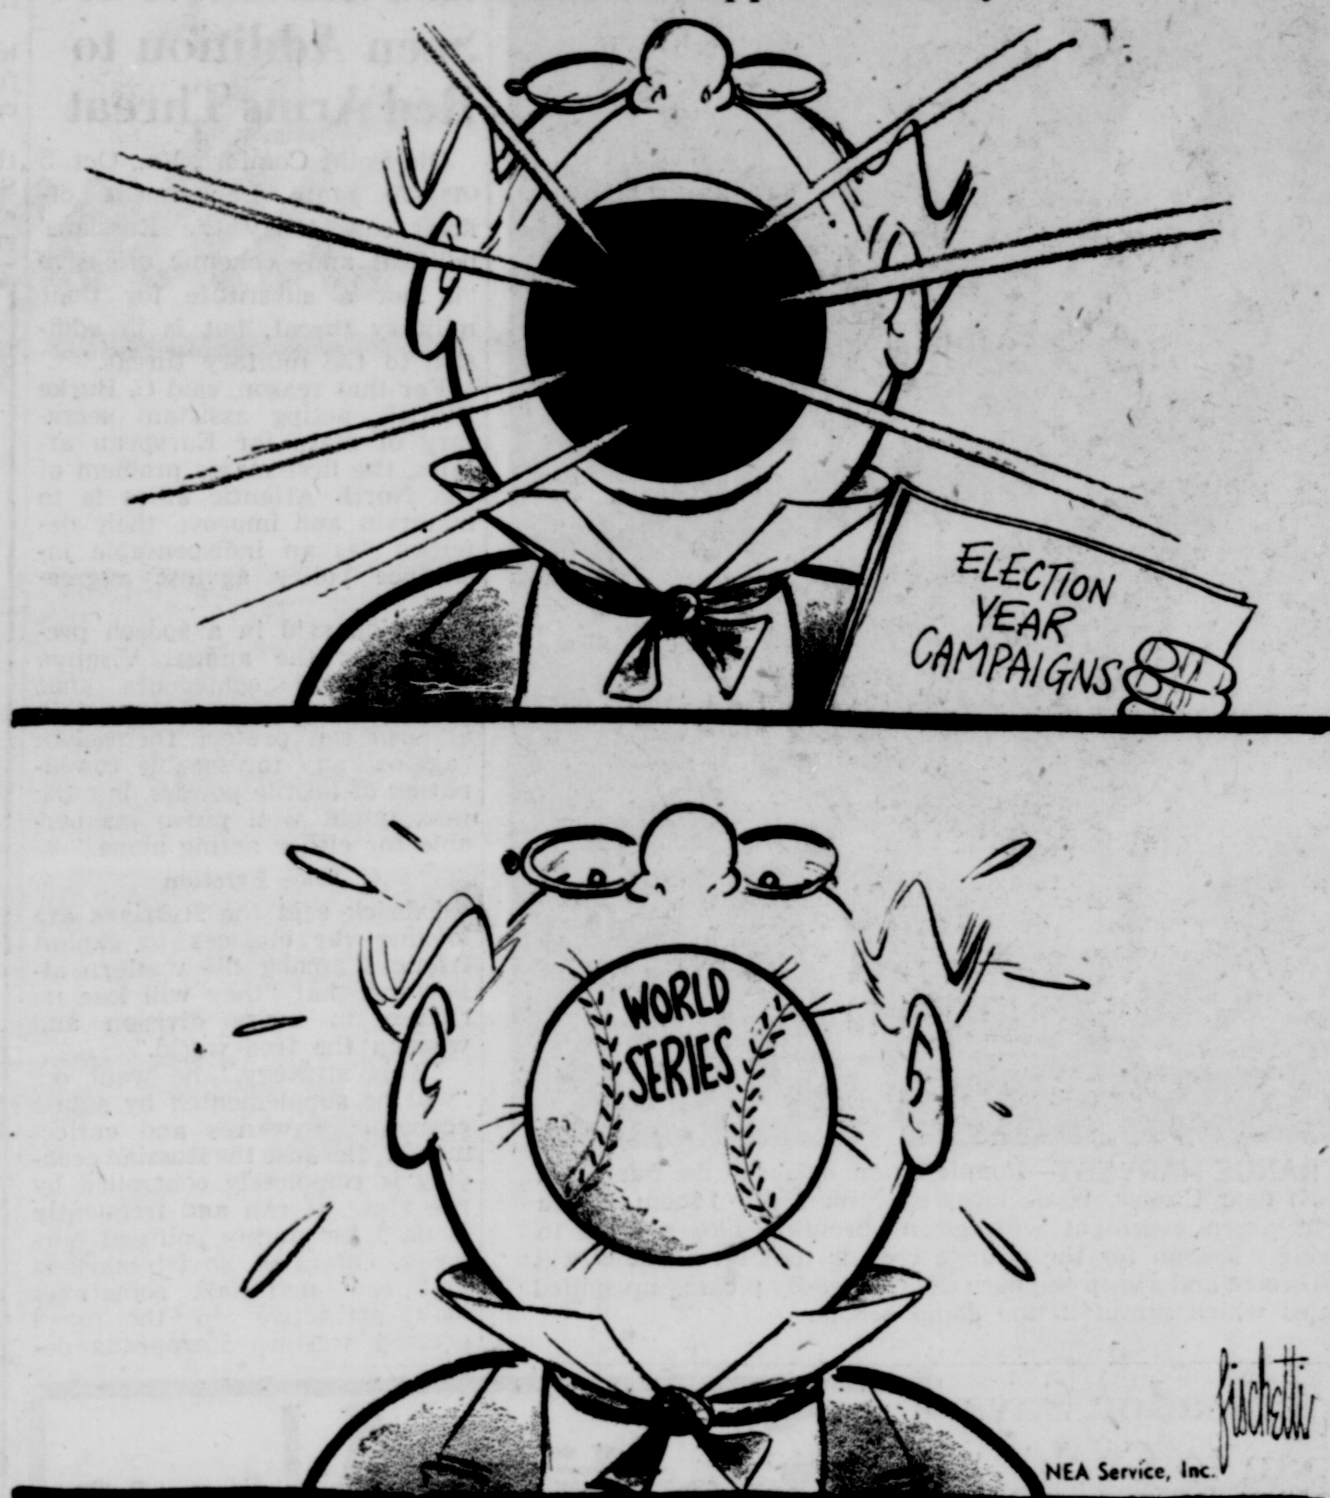

Another very common case is the child who is over-protected, warned not to get over-excited or overheated, or over-tired, to be always a “littly lady.” Such a child has little experience to prepare her for the rough and tumble world of kindergarten children.

A commonly overlooked cause for shyness is the child whose place has been taken by a younger sister or brother in the parents' affection. We are used to seeing the younger child try to keep up with the elder but we may not notice the younger child who is being pushed by the parents to be on an equal with the elder. This discourages the older child who also then tends to retreat into himself or herself. The “spoiled baby of the family” may be a real menace to its older brother or sister.

“In childhood, there is always a problem to solve, a new step to take. The step goes forward if the going is not too rough for him, if he gets good doses of encouragement. It goes backward if he is frightened or made to feel that he is bad or inadequate. Then he feels ashamed of himself or guilty or afraid that something will happen to him and so he steps aside, one might say, and tries to find a safe place to land.”

Tomorrow we will have a little further discussion on the shy child.

It Was Bound to Happen Someday

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — One new twist to this 1956 presidential campaign is that both the Republicans and the Democrats are now trying to smear each other as “millionaires.”

Much of the Democratic campaign, of course, is based on the charge that the Republicans are running a “big-business” administration, with a millionaire cabinet that has little real concern for the downtrodden and underprivileged.

The Republicans answer this charge with the claim that all their rich officials were born poor boys who worked their way up from the bottom to their present positions at the top of the economic ladder.

The Republicans claim further that the rich Democrats inherited their fortunes, which makes them the real scions of inherited wealth.

Democratic orators from Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson on up through the New and Fair-Deal days have made political capital on the claim that they were the real champions of the poor, while the opposition was the party of special privilege.

TO OFFSET THAT CHARGE this year, the Republicans have thought up a countercharge. It pictures Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson as a millionaire, masquerading with a hole in his shoe as the friend of small business, the small farmer and the common man.

This campaign goes beyond Stevenson, however, to charge that the Democratic party is crawling with millionaires.

Four times lately, Republican spokesmen have aimed political thunderbolts at Stevenson and the Democrats on this accusation.

Said Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel of Kansas: “Never have so many millionaires cried so suddenly for the ‘little man’ as right now. . . . Many of these are men who inherited their money, among them the richest men in American politics, Averell Harriman and G. Mennen ‘Soapy’ Williams. And 130 millionaires attended the Chicago convention of the Gilded Party.”

Said Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield: “The fakery of Adlai Stevenson's campaign is exemplified in this millionaire running around the country with a hole in his shoe. He trades in Wall Street and he says he is for the ‘little man.’”

Said Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska: “I have seen published reports that upwards of two million dollars was spent by Mr. Harriman in his drive” (to secure the Democratic presidential nomination).

Said Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, in an earlier statement: “It is the Democrat party that nominated the poor little rich boy, Stevenson. . . . Remember, too, there were 300 millionaires at the Democratic convention.”

THE 300 FIGURE has now been revised to 130. But GOP headquarters has no list to support either number. Inquiries are referred to two newspaper stories written during the Democratic convention.

One of them made an estimate there were “about 275 millionaires or close-to-millionaires in official attendance” and “probably another 40 without official convention status.” But only 28 names were listed. The other story named 24 and there was much duplication in the two lists.

In addition to Stevenson, Williams and Harriman, such familiar names were included as Senators Herbert Lehman of New York, Stuart Symington of Missouri, Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, Albert M. Greenfield of Philadelphia, Nathan Straus and Fortune Pope of New York, ex-Postmaster General Jim Farley, former Sen. William Benton and ex-Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, ex-ambassador James Bruce, former Secretary of Navy Dan Kimball and Frank Sinatra.

But like most of the Eisenhower cabinet members, most of these Democrat millionaires made their piles the hard way, by their own wits, or else they struck oil.

More than 200 species of birds find sanctuary in Yellowstone National Park, world's oldest.

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—A 1956 arrival at the San Diego Zoo is an Australian Frilled Dragon, a three-foot lizard which the zoo says will put up a great show of ferocity but flees quickly when the foe doesn't scare. Its scaled frill rises fanwise about its head when it is angered or annoyed.

Among those who certified that Brewster and Sweeney were admirable citizens, in their applications for racing credentials in California, was J. C. Stevenson.

Mr. Hunt wrote: “John C. Stevenson arrived in the state of Washington about 1925 as a fugitive from justice in Buffalo. His name in Buffalo was John C. Stockman. He was charged with running a bucket shop there. He was indicted in Broome county and in another county of New York. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer sent me to Buffalo on the story. In Buffalo I filed a mandamus to compel the district attorney to demand extradition. The D. A. had refused until then to ask extradition. The governor of Washington was Clarence D. Martin. A Democrat. There was a stormy hearing at which a victim by the name of Albert Abendschein, from Buffalo, confronted and identified Stevenson but Martin denied extradition, on technical grounds. The Buffalo indictment later was quashed.

ally was elected commissioner of Kings county. He started in Seattle politics as a speller for an advertising dentist. I saw him around the teamsters' headquarters about 1926 and I recall but never sprang that on him. Those were terrible days of the depression and he played on the hopes and fears of old people in his orations. They were grasping at the coat-tails of any silver-tongued Messiah promising pie in the sky.

“He had his name legally changed to Stevenson through a clever device. He was running for governor, and another fellow named John A. Stevenson, had filed. John C. Stevenson then let out a howl of rage and petitioned the court to change his name to radio speaker John C. Stevenson, which it still is, as far as I know. I used to refer to him after that as R. S. J. C. Stevenson. His excuse for the court action was that he desired to prevent confusion. The result was to make his name legally Stevenson instead of Stockman and to protect him against challenge of being improperly elected if his true name ever were revealed.”

In the morgue of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer there are 20 library file cards on Stevenson, with 20 notations of old stories in each card. There is no evidence in the morgue that he ever denied that he actually was Stockman. When he was confronted with the information from Buffalo on June 6, 1933, Stevenson refused to comment. He had claimed to be a veteran of the British flying forces, but, during a court proceeding, refused to produce any papers concerning service in the British or Canadian forces “because it might incriminate me.”

Stevenson stumbled by mispronouncing the name of Tallahassee, Fla., where he said he had been stationed during the first World War. Hunt also heard him say in a radio spiel that his son was having a birthday and learned that the boy was born in Buffalo. Hunt checked the vital statistics in Buffalo and found no record of any son born to any Stevenson that day, but did find that a son was born to the wife of John C. Stockman and that the mother's maiden name had been Stevenson. Hunt then went to Buffalo and was told that the office of the district attorney, a Democrat, had no record of Stockman. Hunt then struck up an acquaintance with two detective sergeants who produced records showing that Stockman had been arrested on Abendschein's complaint, and that he was listed as a fugitive in two indictments. These indictments were found in the district attorney's office, both charging grand

'Big Business' Argument Boomerangs on Democrats

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 5.—The “big business” argument which the Democrats, from Adlai Stevenson down, have been using can boomerang—and there are signs already that it is doing so.

The point made by the Democratic nominee is that President Eisenhower's administration is dominated by big business, influenced by big business, and hence is hostile to little businesses and to the workingman.

What this implies is that there is something unethical and improper about the President's record in office, that somebody has allegedly benefited at somebody else's expense, and that Mr. Eisenhower is presumably the enemy of workingman.

President's Reply

Small wonder that the President himself hit back vehemently at such tactics in the campaign, when he said the other day at Cleveland:

“The opposition say that they alone care for the workingmen and women of America and that the Republican party is really a vague kind of political conspiracy by big business to destroy organized labor and to bring hunger and torment to every worker in America. This is more than political bunk. It is willful nonsense. It is wicked nonsense.”

Turned over to the other side of the coin, the Republican speakers can make a pretty good case on what the hostility of the Democrats to big business could mean in legislative moves to harass, if not frustrate, the larger companies and prevent them from expanding. This could discourage job creation and fuller employment.

Automotive Industry

In Michigan, for instance, are three big businesses—Ford, General Motors and Chrysler—the principal producers in the nation's biggest industry. Would the workers in those plants be benefited if a Democratic administration gets into power and starts breaking up these companies? Employment in the state of Michigan would take a decided drop, and there would be a chaotic period of stagnation if the Federal government began to take over or to regulate the motorcar industry.

Working for the government means, of course, that labor unions lose their right to strike—their most important lever in collective bargaining. Radicals who favor government ownership as the alternative to big business operations had their way a few years ago in England, for example, when the socialist Labor party voted to have the government take over the steel industry. But the people repudiated this at a subsequent election.

No Definition

Despite all the denunciation of “big business,” there is no clear definition in the present campaign by the Democrats as to just what they consider wrong about the larger companies. If those companies are violating the anti-trust laws and aren't being prosecuted, there could be a case made. But the denunciation from the Democrats is of “big business” in general.

When it comes to enforcing the anti-trust laws, the Eisenhower administration has been just as zealous as, if not more so than, its predecessors. The other day a business executive who heads up a large corporate enterprise was saying privately to this writer:

“I shall vote for Ike reluctantly. I like him personally. But his Department of Justice has caused my company more trouble than all the Democratic administrations in past years put together.”

An attempt is constantly made by the Democratic spokesmen to place “big business” in the position of seeking to eliminate unions. Actually, unions derive their right to exist from a statute of Congress, and no candidate or spokesman on the Republican side has proposed the repeal of the law-given right of the unions to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

Private Enterprise

What apparently is back of the drive against “big business” is an effort to create a hostile atmosphere to the private-enterprise system itself—to cultivate the ground for the introduction of state socialism. Yet no body of workers in the world enjoys the high wages and the high standard of living which has been obtained for these workers under the private-enterprise system.

It isn't clear what are the affiliations of the Democrats themselves with “big business.” Thus, Adlai Stevenson last year was not averse to accepting a fee from a big corporation which he represents as a lawyer arguing a case before the Supreme Court. There are many Democrats, active in the campaign, who are members of law firms which derive much of their proceeds from big business.

The truth of the matter is that it is not the professional politicians but the radical organizations working for the election of Stevenson which are really hostile to large business. Hence, it is surprising to see Adlai Stevenson adopting the anti-business arguments of the radicals. This can only result in grave doubts being aroused among workingmen as to what would happen to them if a Democratic administration comes into power after a campaign based so definitely on speeches hostile to business. A few days after I presented the inspiring success story of Frank W. Brewster and John Sweeney, president and secretary-treasurer of the Western Conference of Teamsters, with headquarters in Seattle, I received a letter from Lester Hunt, of the Indianapolis Star. He formerly was vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and editor of its official journal, called the Teamster. Brewster and Sweeney have been partners in a number of racing stables within their official domain, with a hundred head of thoroughbred stock, on and off, in the last 20 years. larceny first degree. Abendschein, a steelworker, charged that Stockman had defrauded him of $450 worth of stock in 1922 when Stevenson was known to him as Stockman and was president of the Iroquois Stock and Bond Corp.

A Seattle authority on Stevenson said: “You are right in assuming that the J. C. Stevenson of Los Angeles is the same ‘radio speaker’ John C. Stevenson” who rode the headlines in Seattle for years.”

Mr. Hunt wrote: “John C. Stevenson arrived in the state of Washington about 1925 as a fugitive from justice in Buffalo. His name in Buffalo was John C. Stockman. He was charged with running a bucket shop there. He was indicted in Broome county and in another county of New York. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer sent me to Buffalo on the story. In Buffalo I filed a mandamus to compel the district attorney to demand extradition. The D. A. had refused until then to ask extradition. The governor of Washington was Clarence D. Martin. A Democrat. There was a stormy hearing at which a victim by the name of Albert Abendschein, from Buffalo, confronted and identified Stevenson but Martin denied extradition, on technical grounds. The Buffalo indictment later was quashed.

“At that time, Stevenson had a radio program in Seattle which he used for political propaganda. He ran for governor and eventually was elected commissioner of Kings county. He started in Seattle politics as a speller for an advertising dentist. I saw him around the teamsters' headquarters about 1926 and I recall but never sprang that on him. Those were terrible days of the depression and he played on the hopes and fears of old people in his orations. They were grasping at the coat-tails of any silver-tongued Messiah promising pie in the sky.

“He had his name legally changed to Stevenson through a clever device. He was running for governor, and another fellow named John A. Stevenson, had filed. John C. Stevenson then let out a howl of rage and petitioned the court to change his name to radio speaker John C. Stevenson, which it still is, as far as I know. I used to refer to him after that as R. S. J. C. Stevenson. His excuse for the court action was that he desired to prevent confusion. The result was to make his name legally Stevenson instead of Stockman and to protect him against challenge of being improperly elected if his true name ever were revealed.”

In the morgue of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer there are 20 library file cards on Stevenson, with 20 notations of old stories in each card. There is no evidence in the morgue that he ever denied that he actually was Stockman. When he was confronted with the information from Buffalo on June 6, 1933, Stevenson refused to comment. He had claimed to be a veteran of the British flying forces, but, during a court proceeding, refused to produce any papers concerning service in the British or Canadian forces “because it might incriminate me.”

Stevenson stumbled by mispronouncing the name of Tallahassee, Fla., where he said he had been stationed during the first World War. Hunt also heard him say in a radio spiel that his son was having a birthday and learned that the boy was born in Buffalo. Hunt checked the vital statistics in Buffalo and found no record of any son born to any Stevenson that day, but did find that a son was born to the wife of John C. Stockman and that the mother's maiden name had been Stevenson. Hunt then went to Buffalo and was told that the office of the district attorney, a Democrat, had no record of Stockman. Hunt then struck up an acquaintance with two detective sergeants who produced records showing that Stockman had been arrested on Abendschein's complaint, and that he was listed as a fugitive in two indictments. These indictments were found in the district attorney's office, both charging grand larceny first degree. Abendschein, a steelworker, charged that Stockman had defrauded him of $450 worth of stock in 1922 when Stevenson was known to him as Stockman and was president of the Iroquois Stock and Bond Corp.

A Seattle authority on Stevenson said: “You are right in assuming that the J. C. Stevenson of Los Angeles is the same ‘radio speaker’ John C. Stevenson” who rode the headlines in Seattle for years.”

Ike Against 3rd Term Bar

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he does not regard as entirely wise the constitutional amendment that bars a third presidential term.

Up to People

Eisenhower, making no attempt to apply his remarks to his own case, said he believes that by and large the people should be able to choose as president anybody they want, regardless of the number of terms.

He told a news conference that there have been objections that this might concentrate power in one individual. But he said he has the utmost confidence in the long-range judgment of the American people.

Most of his meeting with reporters was devoted, as can be expected these days, to politics. There were a few questions on domestic and foreign policy sprinkled in.

Eisenhower, under questioning said he likes campaigning—that he likes to get out and see the people instead of just getting reports.

And, he said, he is on the road of truth and facts—not on the high road or low road.

This was an obvious jab at Democratic opponents who have been accusing the GOP of taking the low road at times during the 1956 political war.

Eisenhower also batted back at the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson, on the civil rights issue.

He said that in the armed forces, his administration ended desegregation by taking the bull by the horns. He did concede that the Democrats had done something in that direction. But he also said that there had been talk about the problem for all the 45 years he was in service.

Extension Opposed

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—A federal examiner today received a petition said to bear the names of 587 farmers opposed to the proposed extension of the metropolitan milk-marketing order to upstate areas. Warren F. Willsey of East Bernbe, Albany county, a director of the newly organized Hudson-Mohawk Independent Producers Cooperative, presented the petition at a federal-state hearing on the proposal. The hearing examiner is G. Osmond Hyde of the U. S. Agriculture Department. Willsey said the petition had been signed by 55 members of the cooperative and by 532 other dairymen who supply 22 upstate counties.

DIED

Pleased With Survey

The board expressed appreciation to Mr. Anders and remarked that he appeared to be off to a good start. They were pleased with the thoroughness of his approach.

The board adopted a resolution empowering the president, Robert Herzog, to "sign such reports as may be required to place the board of education on record as indicating a staff free of all subversive activities."

The resolution pointed out that the board had caused a survey to be made of "the subversive activities of the employees of the Kingston City Schools" and that "each member of the staff has signed a notarized statement testifying that he is not a subversive."

Invited to Conference

The board took cognizance of an invitation from the Junior League to attend the Mid-Hudson Valley Conference Wednesday, Oct. 17, sponsored by the Kingston chapter in cooperation with chapters at Poughkeepsie, Middletown and Newburgh. Purpose of the conference to educate the individual to become a stronger, wiser member of the community. Of particular interest, the invitation pointed out, would be a discussion of the changing community.

The resignation of Mrs. Mae Dietz, food service helper at School 6, was accepted with regret.

The board approved probationary appointment of Gideon Zuta as a teacher in industrial arts at an annual salary of $3,700. Mr. Zuta formerly taught in Endicott and Utica.

Mrs. Ann B. Smith and Mrs. Lily V. Stange were appointed to permanent status as senior stenographers. Mrs. Sally Schlatter was appointed stenographer.

To Honor 40 Teachers

Mrs. Vincent Connelly, a member of the board, and Mary Polhemus, an elementary school principal, were appointed a committee of two to make arrangements for a dinner in honor of approximately 40 new teachers in the local school system. The dinner will be held some time during Thanksgiving Week.

Attendance at the following conferences was approved: Superintendent Earl Soper, American Association of School Administrators, Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 15-20, 1957.

Miss Grace Gordon, Mrs. Viola Opdahl, Richard Stedman, Industrial Council Troy, Oct. 11-13, 1956.

Mrs. Frieda Dingee, Temple Reading Clinic, Oct. 15-17, 1956.

Several members of the secretarial staff to the New York State Educational Secretaries' Association meeting Albany, Oct. 5-6.

Martha Barnett was granted permission to participate in the correction of The College Board English Composition Examination under the supervision of The Education Testing Service, Princeton, N. J., Dec. 2-8.

Mr. Soper praised Miss Barnett, explaining that it was a "real honor" both to the board and the school that she had been selected.

Installation of three fire bells in the vocational building was approved. It was explained that when the band is practicing it is very difficult to hear the alarm in that section of the building.

Extension of the rheumatic fever program to include all city school children in need of rheumatic fever penicillin prophylaxis was approved.

It was reported that of 1,323 children examined during the first month of school a total of 959 had dental defects.

Hope was voiced that a local service club might undertake to sponsor a dental clinic for local school children.

It was announced that there would be a New York State School Boards meeting in Syracuse, Oct. 21-23. Mr. Soper, Mrs. Connelly and Robert McDonald, business administrator, will attend.

Mrs. Connelly reported briefly the progress of her committee in its study of rules and policies. She said they were now "ready to tackle" the articles on administration and students. The final report will be submitted to the board when completed.

Eber Brock Ward rolled the first bar of industrial steel in America at his Bessemer steel mill, Wyandotte, Mich., in 1864.

Yankees Lead

York Yankees for their second World Series game at Ebbets Field today with big Don Newcombe (27-7) trying to make it two straight for the Dodgers over the Yanks' Don Larsen (11-5).

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks, shook up his lineup and batting order after Wednesday's opening defeat by Sal Maglie. Jerry Coleman went to second base and Joe Collins moved into the lineup at first base. Billy Martin shifted from second to third, with Andy Carey and Bill Skowron riding the bench.

In the new batting order, Stengel had shortstop Gil McDougald leading off with the 40-year-old Eros Slaughter batting second. Slaughter had three hits in the opener. Mickey Mantle was hitting third, followed by Yogi Berra.

Manager Walter Alston of the Dodgers fielded the same team that beat the Yanks 6-3 in the opener but moved left fielder Sandy Amos up to bat sixth. Right fielder Carl Furillo slid down to seventh and catcher Roy Campanella to eighth, just ahead of Newcombe, like Larsen a good hitting pitcher.

An Ebbets field usher, Ken Smith was felled by a long drive into the right field stands by catcher Rube Walker of the Dodgers during batting practice.

The usher was carried to the first aid room on a stretcher. Attendees said he had regained consciousness before he was removed to Kings County Hospital. The usher was chatting with police and other ushers when Walker hit a savage drive down the right field line.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—The stock market plodded along in dull trading with prices mixed early this afternoon.

Leading issues made gains or losses ranging from fractions to around a point.

The market was mixed from the start, showed little movement either to the plus or minus side and no special groups displayed any leadership.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 10 cents to $176.50 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails up 10 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

On the American Stock Exchange change prices were mixed in quiet trading.

Corporate bonds were lower. U. S. government bonds were firm in quiet trading.

Missing Cadet Found Near Woods

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—A first-year cadet, missing from the U. S. Military Academy since last Monday, was found rain-soaked and dazed yesterday after emerging from woods some 25 miles south of here.

The cadet is 17-year-old Stephen W. Bernotski Jr., whose parents reside in Reno, Nev.

He was sighted by a woman as he emerged from woods near the village of Orangeburg in adjacent Rockland county. The woman called authorities, and Bernotski was taken back to the academy by ambulance.

When found, the youth was clad in a pair of school trousers, a T-shirt and had a West Point blanket wrapped around him.

He was suffering from exposure and somewhat incoherent, but his condition was reported as good.

West Point officials said they had been unable to learn where he had been since leaving the academy.

Bernotski was last seen on the academy grounds about 4 p. m. Monday. A candidate for the track team, he was seen running along a path as if he were training.

The entire 2,400-man cadet corps conducted a search for him yesterday.

IBM Gives Time Equipment Div. Its Own Status

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—International Business Machines Corp. announced Thursday it has given autonomous status to its time equipment division, oldest of the three original divisions of the company.

In its new position, the division will remain a part of IBM but will operate independently. Its general manager will be responsible for all operations of the division except for major policy decisions.

Thomas J. Watson Jr., IBM president, named Herbert Keith as general manager of the division. Keith was formerly executive assistant to the executive vice president.

Within the past year IBM has given autonomous status to three other divisions. The time equipment division was added to the list, Watson said, because of increasing business and continuing diversity of products. He estimated the division's revenues have grown 300 per cent since 1946.

Hartford Lawyer Gets Virgin Islands Post

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today announced the appointment of John Woodward Newman, 42-year-old Negro lawyer of Hartford, Conn., as assistant U. S. Attorney for the Virgin Islands.

He will succeed Croxton Williams, who is resigning.

Newman, a native of Palatka, Fla., is a graduate of Ohio State University and Columbia University Law School.

After graduation from Ohio State, he was an auditor and field inspector for the Atlanta (Ga.) Life Insurance Co., and after army service in World War 2 became an investigator for the Office of Price Administration.

He was subsequently a senior claims examiner for the Veterans Bonus Division of the State of Connecticut, and later traffic attorney in the Hartford City Court. He has been in private practice at Hartford since July, 1955.

'Equality State'

Wyoming is known as the "Equality State" because women there were given the right to vote in 1869, 51 years before women could vote generally in the United States.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Woodstock Club Holds Junior Riding Days

Woodstock, Oct. 5—The first of three junior riding days sponsored by the Woodstock Riding Club got off to a good start Sunday at the Woodstock Riding Club grounds.

The turnout for the show was substantial in spite of somewhat threatening weather and other horsemanship activities on that weekend. Eleven different classes for English and Western riders offered a variety of entertainment. Though it was a show for juniors only, the first class, "Opening Drill and Salute to the Flag" led by Parade Leader Mrs. Charles Riley of Saugerties, precipitated a professional atmosphere that continued throughout the day.

Judges for the show were Mrs. Paul LePaige and Mrs. Andrew F. Snyder for the English division and Herbert Teller and Peter Teller for the Western. Ring stewards were Charles F. Roach and Richard Haberstroh. Mrs. Herbert Cutler was steward. Some of the classes were so large that only half of the group were called to the rail at a time. The judges determined this necessary to insure each rider an equal share of attention.

Following are the ribbon and trophy winners of the classes offered: Jumping—Judy de Groff of Kingston on "Father Jack"; Ribbon Race—Pat Donahue and Joyce Patterson of West Camp in team; Pony Class—Amanda Cutler of Kingston on "Midnight"; Pleasure Horse, English Division—Susan Ashley of Kingston on "Misty"; Pleasure Horse, Western Division—Joan McMahon of Rifton on "My Lady Love"; Grooming Class—Susan Ashley of Kingston; Equitation, Western Division—Robert Riley of Saugerties; Equitation, English Division—Susan Ashley of Kingston.

In addition to the regular blue ribbons, each received an appropriate statuette trophy donated by Carl Altevogt of West Camp. Musical Chairs—Betsy Millikan of Kingston on "Jigger"; Western Sprint—Richard Peck of Saugerties on "Cutty"; Egg Race—Bonnie Kaiser of Zena on "Patches"; Suzie Perlman of Woodstock received a silver trophy donated by Marvin Chase, for best treatment of her mount throughout the day.

Following the noon recess, an unscheduled but entertaining bit of horseplay was presented by Robert Cousins Jr., and his mount, Oklahoma Duke.

Dr. Paul LePaige was the attending physician for the day. The ring crew consisted of John Patterson and Mr. Altevogt. Ringclerk was J. C. van Rijn. The announcer for the day was George Hard.

The second junior riding day will be held on Sunday, Oct. 21, and the final one on November 11.

Wittenberg Sportsmen Have Land Surveyed

Woodstock, Oct. 5—On Saturday Daniel Kleine will survey the property of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club it was announced at the regular meeting Wednesday night. He will be assisted by Nelson Shultis and Edward Jurist, club members.

The back half of the clubhouse roof has been completed and the front portion will be done by club members Saturday, Oct. 13. Any club member who would like to assist with this project is asked to call Nelson Shultis.

A discussion took place on the subject of pheasants and a committee of two was formed. They are Mr. Jurist and Richard Whalen. The project is for the propagation of pheasants by the club as offered by the Conservation Department.

The Ulster County Federation of Sportsmen's Club trap shoots will be held at the Glasco Fish and Game Club, Sunday at 10 a. m. The fee per team includes five men. Sportsmen who want to practice may do so starting at 8 a. m. in the morning. Mr. Jurist and Mr. Shultis are a committee of two to organize the Wittenberg team to participate in the event. Among the members offering to be on the team are: Bev Anderson, Mr. Jurist, Mr. Whalen, Robert Holsapple, Ben DeGraff and Nelson Shultis. It was voted at the meeting to give the Federation $5 toward a prize for the event.

The next Ulster County Federation meeting will be at Plattekill Firehouse, Thursday at 8 p. m.

Mr. Jurist offered to obtain for the club a supply of Winchester safety posters.

Five new members were welcomed into the club.

Vols Extinguish Garbage Truck Fire

Woodstock, Oct. 5—Stubby Wolven's garbage truck caught fire in the refuse compartment, Tuesday about 2:45 p. m., while parked in front of the American Legion Hall. Prompt action by the Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 prevented any damage and the blaze was quickly extinguished, it was reported.

Art Instructor Will Offer Lecture Briefs

Woodstock, Oct. 5—Frank Reilly, instructor at both the Art Students League in Woodstock and New York city will present a compendium of 14 art lectures, for the 23rd year at the New York school which started Oct. 3.

They include his complete analysis of subjects students should study and will be illustrated with paintings, drawings, charts, slides and motion pictures. They will be given at the League Lecture Hall, 215 West 57th street. The subjects to be discussed are: Light and Shade, Color, Painting the Model, Painting the Landscape, Figure Drawing, Anatomy, Perspective, Drapery, Abstractions, Color Abstractions, Composition, History of Modern

Quality Control Group Hears Talk By GE Engineer

Fifty-eight members and guests of the Mid-Hudson Section of the American Society for Quality Control met this week at the Capri Restaurant in Port Ewen for the regular monthly meeting of the Society. Harold Freeman of General Electric, Schenectady was the principal speaker.

Mr. Freeman, a quality engineer in the Manufacturing Service Division at General Electric, discussed "What Management Expects of the Quality Control Engineer."

Must Use Ingenuity
"To do the required job" said the speaker, "the Quality Engineer must use ingenuity." His objective, of course, is better quality at lower cost, which can only be obtained by careful planning and the proper use of statistical data. Management is continually evaluating, on a dollar basis, the effectiveness of a Quality Control program for its contribution to company growth and profits and product reliability. Mr. Freeman emphasized that to implement a successful Quality Control program, the Quality Control Engineer must deal with many people and must, therefore, above all, be tactful.

Lloyd Collins, quality engineer in the IBM Military Products Division was the coffee speaker and discussed "The Importance of Proper Planning in Development Production Experiments." Mr. Collins illustrated that erroneous data obtained from improper planning often results in costly changes to manufacturing processes.

Kidnaped Baby's Mother Enters Mental Hospital

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 5 (AP)—The father of a kidnaped and murdered Cynthia Ruotolo entered a state mental institution here last night.

State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman, who is heading the investigation into the 6-week-old baby's death, said he understood 33-year-old Eleanor Ruotolo had asked to be admitted to the Connecticut State Hospital. But he said he did not know why.

A spokesman at the hospital said all questions about Mrs. Ruotolo, wife of a paint salesman, would have to await the arrival of hospital officials sometime today.

Body Found Later

Cynthia disappeared from her carriage left by Mrs. Ruotolo in the foyer of a Sears Roebuck department store in Hamden on Sept. 1.

The infant's body was found five days later in a lake, about a mile from the store. It was stuffed in an air tight plastic bag and weighted with a stone.

Mrs. Ruotolo collapsed in her husband's arms during graveside services for the baby. Cynthia was the third infant Mrs. Ruotolo and her husband, Stephen, lost to death. One child died of pneumonia and a second died in an accident.

An autopsy report showed that the baby had died of suffocation—either from drowning or some other cause. It also showed the baby probably died the same day it was taken from its carriage.

Expect Trial to Resume

Philadelphia, Oct. 5 (AP)—The complicated anti-trust damage suits between eastern trucking concerns and some of the nation's biggest railroads are expected to resume trial Tuesday.

An officer of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn. says Edwin Gogolin, vice president and general manager of the PMTA, said at the state capital in Harrisburg yesterday that the PMTA, one of the principal parties in the court action, expects a resumption of trial as scheduled.

Gogolin's statement followed speculation that an out of court settlement might be reached and a report by the Philadelphia Bulletin that the truckers had rejected a proposal for a joint council to police operations by both sides.

McKenzie is North Dakota's largest county, with an area of 2,847 square miles.

Paul Makepeace and son, Stephen of Plessis visited Mr. Schwegel's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwegel at their home in Leonia, N. J. Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Makepeace and son, Stephen, have returned home following a visit with Mrs. Makepeace's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schwegel.

State of New York, County of Ulster, ss: Sworn to and subscribed before me this 3rd day of October, 1956 and hereby certified that I am not an officer or director of this bank.

JOHN L. BOTT, Notary Public

My commission expires March 30, 1958.

Briefly Told

Plattsburgh, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Frosts late last spring have been blamed for a more than 50 per cent drop in Clinton county's apple crop.

Merle Reese, county extension agent, said yesterday a general survey disclosed the quality of the apples as excellent but the harvest will net only about 300,000 bushels compared to more than 600,000 bushels last year.

Los Angeles, Oct. 5 (AP)—Production of aluminum will set a new national record this year, members of the American Mining Congress have been told.

Lawrence Litchfield Jr., vice president of Aluminum Co. of America, reported yesterday that domestic production in 1955 was 1,565,721 tons and the 1956 total is expected to reach 1,675,000 tons, a 7 per cent increase.

Litchfield's report was read to the convention because he was unable to be present.

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Communications Commission has invited comment to be submitted by Nov. 7 on a proposed substitution of channel 56 for channel 72 at Cortland, N. Y. and assignment of 56 to Binghamton.

The commission also said yesterday it had been asked to approve a corporate change at radio station WIRY, Plattsburgh, N. Y., with transfer of control to Joel N. Scheiner.

Canastota, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Two barns on a farm north of here were destroyed by fire last night. The work of an air-line crew that spotted the blaze and sounded an alarm by radio.

Capt. Robert H. Hancock and First Officer John J. Ciol, pilot, of a Mohawk Airlines to Newark, N. J., flight, saw the fire and radioed an alarm to the control tower at Hancock field, Syracuse.

The control tower notified state police, who in turn relayed the alarm to firemen of this village.

The two barns were on a farm owned by Paul E. Hatch.

WHITTIER

THE MASTER PLANNED COMMUNITY

Orchards and dairy farms, hayfields and wooded cover have characterized this long bench along the Hudson river as a lovely pastoral area for centuries past.

THIS IS WHITTIER!

A far advanced concept in design and engineering planned to grow graciously and gradually to a maximum population of approximately 8,000 to 10,000 Whittierites.

THIS IS WHITTIER!

Out in the country, but only a matter of minutes to main areas by the new Kingston-Rhinebeck Bridge road.

THIS IS WHITTIER!

A central sewer system — a central water supply company — a master TV reception tower, providing the most advanced city-standard facilities and utilities to each home, in a mountain background setting.

THIS IS WHITTIER!

A group of experienced planners and constructionists, genuinely dedicated to ultimately creating a modern showplace community, respecting the aesthetic and cultural aspects inherent to a standard of better living, along with the soundly engineered long range basic improvements.

THIS IS WHITTIER!

Adjoining and surrounding the announced site of the IBM Country Club and recreational center, assuring hundreds of acres of open area of landscape and sky — of particular interest, of course, to IBM personnel.

THIS IS WHITTIER!

These are the reasons and the ways mother land gives birth to a brand new community which must grow to stand on its own feet.

A lady visiting an asylum displayed a great interest in one old man particularly.

Lady—And how long have you been here, my man?

Man—Twelve years.

Lady—Do they treat you well?

Man—Yes.

After addressing a few more questions to him the visitor passed on. She noticed a smile broadening on the face of her attendant, and on asking the cause heard with consternation that the old man was none other than the medical superintendent. She hurried back to make apologies. How successful she was may be gathered from these words:

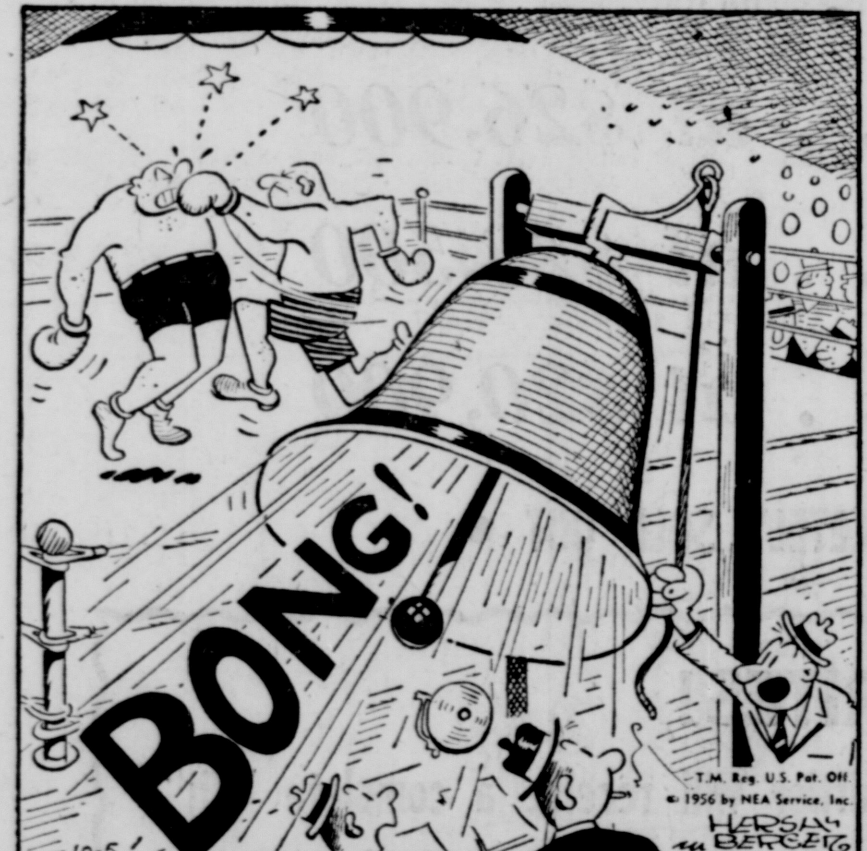

Lady—I am sorry, doctor. I will never be governed by appearances again.

Back Draft Probe

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5 (AP)—Three Alabama draft boards stand today behind a demand that Congress investigate the draft delay granted a Montgomery Negro attorney. And the state's senior senator, Lister Hill, has also called for an investigation of the delay granted Fred D. Gray by the national Selective Service director, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey. The postponement of induction has resulted in a wave of protests across Alabama. 15 resignations from the Selective Service system and two county draft boards, stating they will not draft any more men until Gray dons a uniform.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 5—A few final days of my annual vacation here on the "Island of Cape Ann," including Gloucester and Rockport, convince me that the best investment program is not necessarily to confine yourself to stocks and bonds.

The population of the United States is constantly increasing. Prices, salaries, and wages are also constantly rising. However, the amount of waterfront will be no greater 100, or even 1,000 years hence than exists today. Stocks and bonds can be manufactured indefinitely by stock dividends, stock splits, spin-offs, and other printing-press methods; but it is impossible to increase waterfront property except by dredging.

The above statement applies not only to ocean frontage, but also to river and lake frontage. It also applies to close-by interior property with a direct, short right-of-way to the water. This, however, should be carefully protected by proper deeds and restrictions.

ALTHOUGH the "field further away looks greenest," such waterfront land in the community in which you live, or on land nearby, is usually the safest. You know the "outs" about such property, which you do not know about other property. Although all such land, including well-located house lots, may be attractive, you will profit most by buying land by the acre before it is sold by the foot.

A local real estate broker might advise buying ocean frontage at high tide from the natives, and selling it at low tide to the summer visitors; but I guess this rule is now outdated. Waterfront property in northern and central states can, however, usually be purchased for less during a winter snowstorm than on a beautiful day in summer! Special bargains can often be secured just before subdivisions, shopping centers, and other real estate developments are to be started.

WHEN BUYING waterfront with which you do not have a lifelong acquaintance, it is well to learn whether it has ever been flooded. This especially applies to lake or river frontage. The best test of such property is to study the character of the buildings nearby, and the trees, shrubbery, etc. It may even be wise to spend a day studying files of the local newspaper covering the last fifty years.

Although it is safe to build only above and beyond the possibility of destructive floods, yet the national and state governments are constantly working on flood control. Hence, it is reasonable to believe that flooding will be less rather than more in future years. This, however, does not apply to ocean frontage. No means have yet been discovered to eliminate ocean storms and hurricanes, but certain non-erosion work now being carried on by the Norton L. Holmes Co. of Lake Wales, Fla., is worthy of careful attention.

EVERY NEW outboard motor sold should add a penny to the value of waterfront property whether ocean, lake, or river. Outboard motors and aluminum boats have been greatly improved the past ten years. According to my friend William L. Less, of 52 Wall street, New York, great improvements in these outboard motors are on the drawing boards. He will give you amazing statistics relating to this subject. It is rumored that "solid gasoline" or compressed natural gas (600 cubic feet to 1 cubic foot) may some day be purchased to serve as a three-month supply for the average-size boat.

In contrast to the above, every new automobile sold may detract a penny from the value of interior land. Autos are getting so thick and accidents increasing so that people may some day refrain from using them for recreation—especially if they are advised to remain home Sundays and holidays when the roads are closely packed.

Going back to my reference to stocks in the first paragraph of this column, I should add that, in most states, you have no taxes to pay on non-income-paying stocks, while you hold them, but you must pay taxes on vacant land wherever it is located. This means that today, when stock prices are high, it may be well to switch from stocks to non-taxable bonds. Then reverse your investment program later and switch the non-taxable bonds into stock and vacant land when these are again low in price.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Looking through the 1897 Kingston City Directory, I see five art studios listed. Mrs. Julia Dillon at 109 Pearl street, S. Graubart at 608 Broadway; Nels Jorgensen at 592 Broadway; T. D. Lewis, corner John and Wall street, and Mrs. E. Sahler Michels at 277 Clinton avenue.

The name, Julia Dillon, as an artist is well-known to most of us. She was especially known for her beautiful flower paintings.

Among the bakers, I see Jacob Hauck at 54 Ravine street. In the early 1920's he was on lower Broadway, and I remember he used to make the daintiest lady fingers. I could eat them like candy. As I remember he baked fresh cookies every day and no doubt they were so cheap that they sold out daily. Mrs. Caroline Pirommer was at 62 Broadway and no doubt, that is the bakery that Jacob Hauck took over later where the Victory Bakery is today.

During Hauck's time, he did his baking in the cellar. We also could bring him ducks and turkeys for baking in his oven. I think he charged 25 cents. He also made birthday cakes, big ones with fudge icing for I think 50 cents. He used to let me watch when I ordered something special.

I wonder how many folks remember the basket manufacturer at 30 North Front street run by Owen McEneaney. The Kingston Carriage Co. of 521-523 Broadway were also listed as bicycle manufacturers. McEntee and Rodie at 113-123 East Strand and John Cullen at St. James street. Giles G. Delamat was listed as a box manufacturer at Foxhall avenue. There were some 10 brick manufacturers at the time and one brick mould manufacturer. The brick mould maker was the Goodsell Brothers at 84-86 Crane street. The Herbert Brush Co. were making brushes at 101-111 Greenkill avenue. Candy was being made by a number of firms in Kingston. There were some 11 carriage manufacturers in Kingston, and some nine carriage painters, so Kingstonians could be outfitted very nicely from carriage to horse right here.

There were two car truck manufacturers in 1897. One was the Diamond Truck and Gear Co. at 24-26-28 Gage street. The other was the Peckham Motor Truck and Wheel Co. at Tremper avenue near Grand street. Cider was manufactured by Sylvester R. Devo at Flatbush avenue. I take it most of the above firms employed men, besides the boat building industry, and the ice harvesting in winter.

Kingston was a sort of center for cigar making with some 18 cigar manufacturers listed which no doubt employed many women. There was also a cigar box factory run by John R. Styles at 73-75 Furnace street. At the time only four electricians were listed. I wonder what the Cunningham Manufacturing Co. of Gage street made. They are listed under food manufacturers. There is also the U. S. Baking Powder Co. at 133-135 O'Neil street. In case anyone digs in his yard around South Wall street and finds any strange pieces of glass, do not be too surprised for the Colonial Glass Works was at South Wall street. There were two hay press factories in town. Giles

G. Delamater made hay presses at 190 Ten Broeck avenue and D. Brodhead Hendricks was at Cornell street. There was a Cornell Knitting Mills down on Mill street. That was 59 years ago.

Students May View Series at High School

Saugerties, Oct. 4—Students of the Main Street School will have an opportunity to view the progress of the World Series in the auditorium after school hours, and during study halls, through the courtesy of George Markmiller, Radio Service, 112 Partition street, Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools announced.

The theme for Cub Scouts during the month of October, is "Puppets" and Den 1 under the leadership of Mrs. Dennis and Den 3 under Mrs. William Plimley's leadership, are making puppets and stages to be used in the entertainment at the regular monthly pack meeting Thursday, Oct. 25.

On 25 with Mrs. William A. Launer, den mother, is studying under the leadership of Charles Brackett, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 32, Atonement Church, for its graduation into the Tenderfoot rank of Boy Scouting.

Plans were also made for the November Pack meeting which will be relative to the theme for November, "Puerto Rico."

Others present at the meeting were Anley Myers, committee-man; Kenneth Maclary, scoutmaster of Troop 32; Saugerties District Commissioner William Plimley and George V. Dennis, scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council.

Lutheran Men's Group Sets Roast Pork Meal

Saugerties, Oct. 4—The Brotherhood of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement, Saugerties plans to sponsor a roast pork and sauerkraut supper Thursday, Nov. 15 at the church social room. The meal will be a full course dinner according to Philip Breithaupt Sr., president of the Brotherhood.

There will be several servings so that it will be possible to serve several hundred people. The Brotherhood voted that all proceeds from the dinner will be donated to the Anna and Sophie Heise memorial organ fund of the church. The fund requires a total of $8,500 to completely install a new 2-manual pipe organ which the congregation is planning to purchase. So far the fund totals nearly $7,000.

The Church Council has called a special meeting of the congregation following the worship service Sunday, Oct. 21 to approve the recommendations of that group to purchase a new organ. The congregation approved the establishment of the memorial organ fund with the bequest from the late Anna Heise of nearly $7,000.

John A. Burns, chairman of the music and worship committee announced that the bid of the M. P. Moller Co., of Hagerstown, Md., to install the new organs for $7,560 was approved. Congregational approval is now necessary.

The two-manual pipe organ will be custom-built specifically for the needs of the church and have five ranks of pipes. However, because of the problems of making the organ and designing it to the needs of the church, it is not expected that the organ will be installed until early in 1958.

Commenting on the proposed constitutional changes, the pastor said, "The changes being proposed are very minor indeed, and are suggested so as to bring the constitution more into conformity with standard procedure in the United Lutheran Church in America." Mr. Breithaupt also announced plans for the November meeting to be held Wednesday, Nov. 7 at 8 p. m. In addition to the business meeting there will be movies, a period of games and recreation and refreshments. The members of the Brotherhood are going to visit 25 men in the congregation to personally invite them to the next meeting.

Cub Pack 32 Committee Has Planning Session

CUB PACK 32 Committee HD—Saugerties, Oct. 4—The Den Mothers and Pack committee of Pack 32, Atonement Lutheran Church held their pack planning meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. George V. Dennis, Market street.

The Rev. Richard I. Crossland, minister of the pack's sponsoring institution, announced the appointment of Roy E. Weber as the new Cubmaster of Pack 32. The Rev. Mr. Crossland also expressed his desire for the formation of at least two more dens for the pack, one of which should be located in the Barclay Heights area where there are a number of boys from Atonement Church who are of Cub Scout age and anxious to become members of Pack 32.

William Hally, chairman of the pack presided during the business meeting. It was decided to change the meeting night of the planning committee from the first Monday of each month to the second Monday. The next meeting of this committee will therefore be on November 12. The place will be announced later.

45 Boy Scouts Attend West Point Game

Saugerties, Oct. 4—Forty-five Boy Scouts and leaders of the Saugerties District attended Scout Day at West Point Saturday. The scouts were assigned to a cadet who served as guide on a tour of the grounds.

Prior to viewing the VMI Army football game they witnessed a dress parade of the cadets. More than 15,500 Boy Scouts attended the event.

Leaders supervising the trip were Lawrence Spatz, scoutmaster of Troop 39, C. A. Lynch Fire Company in charge of his troop and Troop 38, Saugerties Methodist Church and Troop 31, Centerville Fire Company; Mervin Wiands and Anthony Martella, Troop 36, St. Mary's Church and Donald S. Fellows, Troop 32, Atonement Lutheran Church.

Youth Council Meets To Plan Halloween

Saugerties, Oct. 4—The annual Halloween celebration in Saugerties will be discussed at a special meeting of Saugerties Youth Council Friday at 8 p. m. in town building, according to Supervisor Peter M. Williams, chairman.

The annual event usually features a parade of children in costume through the village streets. In previous years prizes were awarded for various forms of dress in the parade and refreshments were served.

A football game of Saugerties Central High School or a teenage dance has been the usual climax for the evening.

Town Notes

Saugerties, Oct. 4—Richard Lee Moon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Moon of Cementon received the rites of Holy Baptism at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church of West Camp Sunday during the regular worship service. The Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor officiated. Floyd Moon, uncle to the infant was sponsor. Mr. Moon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Moon of Cementon. Mrs. Moon is the former Nancy Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bennett of Malden-on-Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Lewis recently returned from a vacation trip through nine states and Ontario, Canada. While on tour they visited their son, Airman Third Class Robert Lewis stationed at Scott Field, Ill.

Mrs. Ruth Lasher of Mt. Tremper visited with Mrs. Anna Winchell of Malden on Hudson this week. Also visiting Mrs. Winchell were Mr. and Mrs. Rea Quick of Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Metz, Mrs. Olivia Thompson and John Metz, all of Rosendale visited with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Helfert of Malden on Hudson this week.

Elks Join Drive To Spur Voting All Over Nation

Kingston Elks will join this year in the get-out-the-vote campaign on direction from the grand exalted ruler.

Exalted Ruler Frank H. Simpson said he would appoint a committee from Kingston Lodge 550, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to formulate plans for the local drive.

The committee is to be named at the regular meeting of the lodge on Thursday night. The business session will start at 8 p. m. in the lodge rooms on Fair street.

Exalted Ruler Simpson said he hoped the 800 members of Kingston Lodge would "put their shoulders to the wheel to help."

Strong Appeal Made

A strong appeal is being made to all Elks throughout the nation by Grand Exalted Ruler Fred L. Bohn of Zanesville, O.,

to promote mass registration and voting.

In a letter to Exalted Ruler Simpson he said "we do not want 30 million losing their votes as they did in 1952."

The Elks have a strong Americanism program, which stresses voting by all who live in this free nation.

There are over a million Elks in more than 2,000 lodges throughout the United States and its territories.

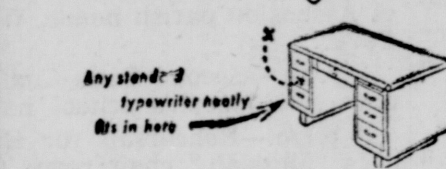

Exalted Ruler Simpson said "we desire every Elk in Kingston and this area to vote, and appeal to his family, friends and associates to go to the polls also."

"We enjoy the privilege of voting because this nation is free—let's vote and keep it that way."

Name Remains

Elizabeth City, N. C. (AP)—One of Elizabeth City's busy intersections is known as Dog Corners. The name dates back to the 1890's when a popular barroom faced the streets. To pass the time of day, men would move outside where dog fights were held with as many as six canines participating.

CHERRYWOOD HILL (Near Hurley, New York)

Come with us through this charming Ranch House which is being offered in a beautifully wooded area near Hurley. We enter a spacious, Vermont slat-floored foyer in this center hall house—to our left is the kitchen designed by General Electric, including wall oven, speed burners, dishwasher, 12 cu. ft. refrigerator, clothes washer, clothes dryer—all 1957 vintage in beautiful color—set in the finest of red birch cabinets. Off the kitchen is a 20' x 25' two-car garage with overhead sectional doors and ample convenient storage area.

To the rear of the kitchen is a spacious dining room with sliding glass doors opening onto a patio. To the right of the dining room and stretching across the rear of the house is the gracious, well-lighted living room, with a real brick chimney.

The sleep-wing contains three lovely size bedrooms and two bathrooms complete with showers and ceramic tile. We've skipped the details—but so that you know that this house is as sound as it is charming, we offer the following high spots: Minneapolis Honeywell electronic heating control (Modnflow); Minneapolis Honeywell tap-lite switches; four inches of insulation, walls and ceilings; Briggs Beautyware plumbing fixtures; all copper plumbing; all copper radiant heating; (yes, you can carpet!); Post-formed Textolite kitchen work surface; General Electric 1957 Appliances in color; York-Shipley oil burning steel boiler unit; 550 gallon fuel oil tank.

Furnishings and decorations are by B. Altman & Co., of New York, and the house can be seen without appointment! And lest you think we're talking about houses of the future, we will enter into contract for delivery of a limited number this December! (And we also have a 4-bedroom, 2 1/2 bath home for $20,900.)

Italian Exchange Student Enjoys American Freedom and Moral Codes

"I always thought the American people had too much freedom," said Laura Baroncelli, 16, exchange student from Italy, "but it is not true. They are restricted by a high sense of morality and perhaps this is why I like it so in this country."
Here on a Prisma scholarship to study at the Kingston High School for one year, Laura, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adalberto Baroncelli, will become an elementary teacher upon completion of her secondary school in Italy.
She comes from the town of Ravenna, which is near northern Italy. About it, she says, "it is a very ancient city. It was once the capital of the Roman Empire in the fifth century after the death of Christ."
Miss Baroncelli arrived in the United States on August 18 and has been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goetichius in Hurley.
While here, she will be studying world literature, American history, French and typing.
Also present during the discussion, was Miss Melinda Basch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Basch of Natick, Mass.

Returns From Germany
Miss Basch, who recently returned from a summer abroad in Germany, through the aid of a Prisma scholarship, found the Germans with whom she came in contact, very sincere and even curious about Americans.
"Germans have the idea that every average American family boasts of a maid and a car and America and I certainly would like to go back again some day, if possible," she said.

Prisma Starts Campaign
Both girls are intent on aiding the Prisma magazine drive which made their trips possible. The campaign will be launched with a fashion show on Oct. 25 in the high school auditorium. At that time, Prisma members will be given a preview of the awards they can win by reaching certain sales goals.
This year, advisors, Mrs. Earl C. Crook and Mrs. Warren Deyo, expressed the hope that the public would once again support the campaign.
Proceeds will be used to send another student abroad in the summer to study the life, ideals and customs of a foreign country. Students are selected on the basis of scholastic ability, personality and manner of getting along with people.
One of the interesting points discovered by the girls during the discussion, was the fact that they had both sailed to America on the same ship, although on different dates, roomed in the same cabin and were served by the same steward. Asked if she would stay in America, Miss Baroncelli said, "No, I would not."

Perhaps if my family were with me, I could—but I certainly hope to come back."

West Park Flower Show Features Are Announced

A hall, brilliant with fall blooms is expected at the 27th Annual West Park Flower Show to be held in Ascension Parish Hall, West Park, Saturday from 3:30 p. m. to 8 p. m. and on Sunday from noon until 6 p. m.

Mrs. William H. Van Benschoten, general chairman, announced that dahlias and chrysanthemums and a variety of annuals and perennials will be outstanding in color in the horticultural display. Many artistic arrangements, following a fall theme, will be on exhibit.

Montague Free, Hyde Park; Henry E. Downer, Arlington; and Frank Berry, Poughkeepsie, will be the judges for the horticultural classes. The arrangement judges will be Mrs. Edward Bergles of Rhinebeck; Mrs. E. Clark Reed, Saugerties; and Miss Helen Dee Troy, Poughkeepsie.

Tea will be served on both afternoons. A musical with Mrs. Leslie Mott, organist, will be given in the church on Saturday afternoon. Attractive gift, food, and flower booths will be on the grounds.

A silver dish will be awarded to the winner of the greatest number of points in both cultural and arrangement classes. A cash award will be given to the point winners of two separate classes. There will also be a cash award to the winner of the popular vote class, "Salute to October," an arrangement for a Halloween Buffet Supper Table.

Serving with Mrs. Van Benschoten on the flower show committee are the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, rector; Henry Cameron, Mrs. Theodore Ochoim, Mrs. Herald C. Swezy, Mrs. Richard Van Benschoten.

Entries will be received at the hall tonight from 7 until 9, and again on Saturday from 9 to 12 p. m. All flower growers and arrangers are welcome to exhibit.

Suspension Lifted

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—The State Athletic Commission today lifted Paddy DeMarco's indefinite suspension because of his "unblemished record" but warned the former lightweight champion to be careful with whom he associated in the future. The 28-year-old Brooklyn boxer was suspended on Sept. 19 for conduct detrimental to boxing. The commission charged DeMarco had an undercover manager with a criminal record, Jimmy Knapp of Brooklyn, acting for him in violation of commission rules for his Feb. 2 bout with Don Jordan in Los Angeles.

Driver Is Arrested

Charles Becker, 18, of Shandaken, was arrested Thursday by Phoenixia state police on charges of driving while intoxicated and driving without a license. He pleaded guilty when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward W. France of the town of Shandaken, was fined $25 or 25 days on the unlicensed operator charge and $50 or 80 days on the drunk driving charge. He was committed to the Ulster county jail.

Reports Plane Crash

Riverside, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—The sheriff's office reported that a big six-jet air force bomber crashed today south of the Air Force Base in the vicinity of the town of Perris. The plane, a B47, normally carries a crew of three but on some flights a fourth man rides. B27s are stationed at nearby March Air Force Base but it was not determined immediately whether this one was from that base.

Registration Called Heavy In Some Areas

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Early bird New Yorkers tramped to the polls under sunny skies today, the first day of registration for the Nov. 6 election.

As the polls opened in most of the larger communities, the turnout ran from spotty to heavy.

In Buffalo, the state's second largest city, a spot check indicated a heavy registration, perhaps reaching the record first-day total of 75,594 in 1944. The outlook also was good in Syracuse, where some voters were in line at 7 a. m.—three hours before the opening.

In Albany, poll workers said the turnout was small but normal for the first day.

Registration begins Monday in New York city and communities in adjoining Westchester county. Non-personal registration, in communities of less than 5,000 registration, will open tomorrow.

Agnes Gilmartin Weds Kenneth Smith

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH SMITH

Miss Agnes Patricia Gilmartin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gilmartin, 44 Main street, Rosendale, became the bride of Kenneth Allen Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith Sr., of High Falls, Sunday, Sept. 30, at 2:30 p. m. in St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

The Rev. Donal Reidy, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

James Sweeney was at the organ and Mrs. Eleanor Sweeney sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother." White gladioli and palms decorated the church and the pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length white gown of lace and tulle over satin trimmed with pearls and sequins. A three-tiered fingertip veil was secured to a headpiece trimmed with pearls and sequins. The bride carried a nosegay of white roses and stephanotis centered with white roses.

Miss Joan Walsh of 218 Tremper avenue was the maid of honor. She wore a cocktail length mauve pink taffeta gown with a fitted lace bodice and carried a nosegay of carnations.

Advance Prediction

Tom Shultis, Bearsville weather prophet who recently made his prediction for the coming winter, said today his prediction for a "nice day" for the garden party at the Mosley home on September 8 had been made three weeks in advance of the fashion show. "It was August 15 when Miss Marion Clarke called me and asked me to predict the weather for the party which was to be held Sept. 8. Three weeks before the date for the garden party I told her to go ahead it would be a clear, cool day, and it was." Tom takes great pride in this prediction for a "nice day" three weeks in the future.

Big 3 Agrees On Suez Move

United Nations, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—The big three western foreign ministers have reached "complete agreement" on a Suez resolution for submission to the UN Security Council, a British spokesman said today.

Sir George Young, British foreign office spokesman, made the announcement after a long conference between Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

AT FATHER'S FUNERAL

"Don't you think a girl of fourteen is too young to wear black, even to the funeral of her father? My husband died recently and my daughter did not wear a black dress to the wake or to the funeral and I understand there has been some criticism about this by members of my husband's family. I would very much like to have your opinion on this matter."

Grandson's Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My grandson is going to be married soon and he has given me permission to invite some of my friends to the wedding. Would it be proper to invite several very good friends of mine, even though they do not know my grandson or his bride-to-be, or would this place them in the position of having to give them a wedding present?

Answer: The correct procedure is for you to send a short list of your most intimate friends to the members of the bride's family and ask that invitations be sent to those on the list. Invitations do not of themselves demand a present.

Thanking Waitress

Dear Mrs. Post: While dining out the other evening, the waitress asked me if I would like some dessert and I answered, "No, thank you." My fiancée took exception to my thanking the waitress and said that it was never done by people of good breeding. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: Not to say "No, thank you" or at least "No thanks!" (and also "Yes, please") in answer to an asked question is the behavior of an ill-bred person. In other words, you were right.

What linens should be in the hope chest? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, a list of linens and trousseau clothes are included in leaflet E-5, "The Bride's Trousseau." la Choir as being one of the outstanding high school choral groups of our state.

"It's conductor, Mr. Leonard Stine, has developed this choral organization through many years of devotion and dedication to the highest standards of musicianship and vocal artistry. His a cappella choir has appeared for our Regents Convocation as well as state and national conventions and has always given outstanding performances.

"I am confident that if Kingston singers are given an opportunity to perform for schools in your state a wealth of inspiration and enjoyment will follow in the wake of their performances."

Superintendent Earl Soper, in a memorandum to Mr. Stine, wrote as follows:

"Permit me to congratulate your a cappella choir on the wonderful tribute paid our schools by both the state department of education in South Carolina and our New York State Education Department.

"I suspect our board would look with favor on the wonderful public relation we would receive if our choir should receive such a formal invitation to South Carolina. . . ."

Junior League Director Plans to Assist Local Chapter With Conference Oct. 17

MRS. ROBERT WADSWORTH

DR. MARGARET WINGERT

The Junior Leagues of Kingston, Middletown, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie will attend a Conference-in-Miniature in Kingston on Wednesday, Oct. 17, according to the announcement made by Mrs. James Norton, president of the Junior League of Kingston. Mrs. Robert Wadsworth of Rochester, board member and director of region two of the Association of the Junior Leagues of America, Inc., will preside over the conference.

As director of region two, Mrs. Wadsworth represents 22 Junior Leagues in New York state and the province of Ontario, Canada. Previously, she served as vice president of the Junior League of Rochester. In her community, Mrs. Wadsworth has a record of devoted service to various agencies. Recently she completed a term as co-chairman of the hospitality committee, the University of Rochester Art Gallery, and was a board member of its women's council. Other activities have included committee work on behalf of the Strong Memorial Hospital, Mothers' March on Polio and fund raising chairman of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

At the Conference-in-Miniature, Mrs. Wadsworth will conduct along with Mrs. Margaret Wingert the morning panel discussion on the responsibilities of the AJLA to the Leagues and the Leagues to AJLA. She will be chairman of the public relations workshop in the afternoon and participate in the evening program.

Dr. Margaret Wingert, consultant on education of AJLA, came to the association from the New York State Education Department, where she was supervisor of community survey and studies.

Mrs. Wingert has written articles, booklets and pamphlets on education and group work and is currently a member of the editorial board of "Adult Education Magazine."

Dr. Wingert will participate in the panel discussion with Mrs. Wadsworth in the morning session, conduct the provision course workshop in the afternoon and present a conference summarization during the evening program.

Kingston High Band Plans Show Tonight At Football Game

A special show will be given tonight by the Kingston High School Band under the direction of Marlin Morrette, instructor at the football game in the stadium during half-time.

The show will feature a salute to the cheerleaders.

This is the third game of the season for the Kingston High School team.

High School Meets Powerful NYMA Tonight at Stadium

Cadets Outweigh Maroon in Line And Backfield

By SAM ANZALONE
(Freeman Sports Staff)
New York Military Academy invaded Dietz Stadium tonight, fortified to the teeth with a 44-man squad and accompanied by its corps of cadets, which numbers 300 strong, for its football battle with Kingston High School. Kickoff time is 8
p. m.

Cadets' Coach Tom Murray said that he was bringing his entire varsity squad, plus the Jays for the encounter. In an interview Wednesday, Murray asserted that the traveling party would also include the band which means that almost the entire body of the military school will be present.

Murray indicated that his first 26 players are expected to get into the game. Against Union Hill High of Union City, N. J., he used his full 32-man traveling squad because of a big lead.

Won Opener
The Cadets won that contest handily, 18-6, which was their opener. They piled up all their points before the host team scored in the final period.
NYMA had to overcome 22
penalties and a loss of 280 yards to win. Just as strange was the fact that Union Hill didn't lose a yard because of penalties.

The key player in the Cadets' attack is 225-pound fullback Pap Luk. Murray said that Luk is a carbon copy of Port Jervis fullback Vince Pagano, who performed here last week. Murray pointed out though, that Luk is faster than the Port power-runner.

Luk showed off some of his speed in the opener when he scampered 79 yards up the middle for the Cadets' last score.
Earlier he exhibited some of his power on a six yard slam off tackle that proved to be the winning touchdown.
Ron Ciszewski, a sophomore quarterback, directed the team capably in the absence of first stringer Joe Dornbush who was sidelined with an injury. Ciszewski scored the other TD on a quarterback sneak to get the Cadets off winning.

Ralph Pizzo, of Newburgh, and Tom Murphy also starred against Union Hill in the backfield. They helped pile up 235 yards rushing along with Luk.

Boasts Heavy Line
Murray expects to go with Luk, Murphy, Pizzo and either Ciszewski or Dornbush in the starting back-field. If Dornbush is ready he will probably get the opening assignment.

Tackles Art McGowan, Bob Wertz and Ken Radcliffe are the heaviest boys in the line which averages a solid 180 pounds. Mc-Gowan weighs 219 and is a six-footer and will play left tackle.
Hertz is a stocky 220 and stands 5'9". Radcliffe, who alternates with Hertz at right tackle, is 210 and 6'1".

The Cadets have a pair of ranging ends in John Romano, 6'0", 195 and Bill Powers, 6'0",
182. They have two speedy guards in Art Pedicini, 5'7", 165 and Charles Comey, 5'8", 178.

Veteran Joe Anzi will be the starting center. He weighs 193 and is 5'10 1/2".
The Maroons, who defeated NYMA 13-6 last year, will be outweighed both in the line and backfield, but will have one distinction. That is they boast the heaviest player on both sides in 248-pound tackle Gene Nagele.
Nagele, who has to sit out all DUSO League games, is scheduled to split the work at left tackle with Fran Janacek. The rest of the line will be the same as started in the Maroons opening two victories over Christian Brothers Academy and Port Jervis.

Nagele in Action
Coach Bill Burke will go with Marv Engle and Bill Chase at ends, Lee Kias and Nagele or Janacek at tackles, Marv Shaub and George Stephano at guards and captain Pete Blanschman at center.

Hobie Armstrong will be back to bolster the backfield after sitting out most of the Port game with sore hips. He or Larry Johnson and Bob Smith will start at the halfbacks and Bill Cragan at fullback. Joe White will run the team at quarterback.

Elsewhere over the weekend,

Hinnant Faces Tony Anthony

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Clarence Hinnant, a home-town boy and a knockout specialist, bids for national light heavyweight recognition tonight in a 10-round meeting with Tony Anthony of New York at Capitol Arena.

Hinnant, 23 and a professional for six years, is credited with 16 knockouts while winning 21 of his 29 starts. He floored his last three opponents—Al Andrews, Willie Troy and Julio Carreras, the Cuban light heavyweight champion.

Anthony, ranked by Ring Magazine as the No. 7 light heavyweight contender, also is expert at the hard punch. He has won 27 of his pro starts, 21 by knockouts.

The fight will be televised over the usual Friday night hookup (NBC, 10 p. m. EDT).

Port and Poughkeepsie will clash on the Red Raiders' field in an important DUSO tussle.
Newburgh goes against powerful Mont Pleasant Friday night in Schenectady. The upstarts will be seeking to extend an unbeaten string that has now stretched into its third season.

Newcombe and Larsen Try Again in Second Game

Odds Makers See Series Even Pick After Day's Delay

By JOE REICHLER
Brooklyn, Oct. 5 (AP)—Their chance to win their first World Series game delayed 24 hours by rain, Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's biggest winner in 32 years and Don Larsen, New York's hottest pitcher in September, tried it again at Ebbets Field today as the Dodgers and Yankees squared off in the second game of the World Series. Pleasant weather was forecast.

The postponement, first since 1951, failed to dim the enthusiasm of the baseball-hungry fans, who were expected to jam the ancient 34,000-seat park just as they did in Wednesday's opening game when 34,479, including President Eisenhower, saw Sal Maglie pitch the Dodgers to a 6-3 triumph.

Scheduled to be among the spectators was Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President. Stevenson was to have appeared at Yankee Stadium for the third game but after yesterday's postponement, he was invited to come to Brooklyn instead.

Although neither manager felt his team had gained any particular advantage by the postponement, the odds-makers thought differently. Latest odds made today's game as well as the series an even money, pick 'em affair.
Had the game been played yesterday, the Yankees would have gone off a 6 to 5 favorite. That's the way it was for the series, too.
"The price for today's game dropped because the extra day's rest figures to help Newcombe," a price-maker explained. "By the same token, the series price dropped because Sal Maglie will be able to get another day's rest."

Yesterday's postponement came at 11:03 a. m. Commissioner Ford Frick called the game off after examining the field and learning that a long, heavy rain was forecast.

"No World Series game ever has been stopped short of nine innings," he said, "and we don't want that ever to happen. It is my responsibility to the players and fans that no game has to be called because of adverse weather conditions."

Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, did not like the postponement but, surprisingly, neither did Walter Alton, the Dodger skipper.

"It could be better for Maglie," Alton said. "I was thinking of using Sal again on Sunday for the fifth game but first I was going to talk with him to find out about his arm. Now the fifth game will be on Monday so it will enable Maglie to get another day of rest."

"However, I would much prefer to have played as scheduled.
We're on a winning wave. We're hitting. We have the momentum.
A day off might hurt. And another day of rest for New-combe might not be good. I think he is at his best pitching every fourth day. A longer rest affects his pin point control."

Newcombe was inclined to agree with his manager.

"I don't particularly like the postponement," said the Dodgers' 27-game winner. "I've been pitching all year with only three day's rest and I'm much better that way than pitching with four days rest. The extra day affects my control."

Despite the washout, New-combe worked out in uniform.
He did no throwing of any kind but he ran for 25 minutes in the outfield. After taking his shower, he said he and his wife were going for their passports for the Dodgers' forthcoming trip to Japan. Then he was going to have dinner, take in a movie and go to bed at about 9:30 p. m.

Larsen, an 11-game winner this year, was Stengel's choice over Tom Sturdivant because of his last four September performances, all of them low-hit affairs. The big righthander, in his lone series start, last year, lasted only four innings and was charged with the defeat. New-combe started three World Series games against the Yankees and lost them all. One of them was a 1-0 decision in the 1949 opener.

Stengel juggled his lineup for today's game, shifting Billy Martin to third base in place of Andy Carey and playing Jerry Coleman at second. His explanation was that more double plays might result. The old man also replaced first baseman Bill Skowron with Joe Collins, simply to employ more lefthanded hitting against the righthanded New-combe.

Alton went with the same lineup but elevated the southpaw hitting Sandy Amoros from eighth to sixth, dropping Carl Furillo to seventh and Roy Campanella to eighth in the batting order.

Rumors persisted that Mickey Mantle Yankee slugger, is far from recovered from his groin in-

THEIR DUEL POSTPONED A DAY—Don Newcombe, right, of the Brooklyn Dodgers matches grips with New York Yankees' Don Larsen just after the second World Series game at Ebbets Field was called off. They will match tosses Oct. 5. Newcombe was baseball's winningest major league hurler this season with 27 victories while Larsen won 11. (AP Wirephoto)

Big Ten Title at Stake?

Michigan-Michigan State Heads Tremendous Grid Slate

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Hotpet Miami and harassed UCLA kick off October's first week-end of football tonight (Friday) and even competition from the World Series can't detract from the widespread interest in what's to follow.

The sophomore-loaded Floridians, 14-6 winners over South Carolina in their opener last week, face untested Boston College as they seek another season as successful as last year's. Miami was 18th in the final 1955 ratings by the Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. This week's poll put Miami in 13th place tie with Illinois.

UCLAN's Hurt
UCLA, last year's Pacific coast conference champion, is trying to balance its remaining manpower after penalties inflicted for illegal payments to athletes.
The UCLANs took a thumping from Michigan last week and now they face Oregon, which with two nonleague victories, appears to be one of the stronger conference teams.

A Skyline Conference game between Denver and Montana and an intersectional tilt between George Washington and Hardin-Simmons rounds out the major Friday night program.
Then comes a tremendous Saturday schedule with heavy emphasis on intersectional games.
Nine of the top ten teams in the current AP ratings are listed for important contests with Michigan State (No. 2) and Michigan (No. 5) meeting at Ann Arbor in the headline. This game could well decide the Big Ten championship.

Wolverines Impressive
Michigan gave a very impressive performance in its 42-13 opening victory over UCLA last week, but so did State in beating Stanford 21-3. Stanford travels east this week to face Ohio State's Buckeyes.

Oklahoma, which easily held its No. 1 rating in a 36-0 opening victory over North Carolina, goes after its 32nd consecutive victory against Kansas State, already beaten twice. Georgia Tech (No. 3) has an open date.
For the next five teams its Mississippi (6) vs. Houston, Pittsburgh (7) at California, Texas Christian (8) vs. Arkansas, Tennessee (9) at Duke in a real toughie and Southern California at Wisconsin.

Other Major Tests
The big ten involved in three more important intersectional games— Iowa-Oregon State, Northwestern-Tulane and California-Illinois—and a conference clash between Minnesota and Purdue. Indiana faces Notre Dame, which had a week off after losing its opener to Southern Methodist.

Other tests between major powers of different sections include Missouri-SMU, Texas-West Virginia, Rice-Louisiana
State, Maryland-Baylor, Arizona-jury. Mickey himself insisted he was all right but observers became suspicious when they noted that Mantle didn't get the proper jump on two fly balls which fell in front of him for base hits in Wednesday's opener.

Certainly his vaunted speed was not apparent in his handling of the bloop hits.

The question concerning Man-tle's state of health may be answered today.

Court Turns Down Tamburello Bid

Baltimore, Oct. 4 (AP)—Frank Tamburello, drafted Monday off the University of Maryland campus where he had been a star football quarterback, was turned down today in a court move to get out of the Army.

Federal Judge R. Dorsey Watkins refused to order the 22-year-old Tamburello's draft board to reconsider their June 22 classification which led to his induction.

The judge took note that it received "consideration up and down the line." He mentioned it had been upheld by the state appeals board and had been referred to the state and national Selective Service directors.

Consider Nat Shift to Coast

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—A shift of Washington's American League baseball club to California in time for next year's season was reported to be under consideration today.

The Washington Post and Times Herald quoted club president Calvin Griffith as saying in New York city that he has such a plan "under consideration" and that an offer made by Los Angeles city officials "looks very attractive to us in many ways."

Colgate Seeks Second Win; Navy Picked Over Cornell

By BOB POWELL
(The Associated Press)

The crystal-gazers say that two of New York's Big Three football teams will make it two-in-a-row in action tomorrow.

Colgate hopes so. Cornell hopes not.

The Red Raiders seek their second victory of the young season when they meet Holy Cross in Worcester, Mass.

Cornell is still looking for its first win, but in entertaining Navy at Ithaca, the chances are slim—mighty slim.

Its more than likely that Colgate football coach Hal Lahar has been stressing a point this week. From a psychological standpoint it probably was the point the Raiders lacked in losing to the Crusaders 15-14 last year.

The Cross was responsible for one of three losses suffered by Colgate last season. A last second field goal attempt by Colgate's Guy Martin failed, and left the Raiders with a 6-3 record.

Bill Smithers, who paced the Crusaders' attack against Colgate, is again directing the home offensive. Last Sunday Smithers passed for one touchdown and set up a second on a pass as the Cross suffered a 14-13 setback to Dayton.

Red Raiders Loaded
Colgate is loaded with experienced backs who stunned Cornell, 34-6 last Saturday. Ed Whitehair scored three times and he'll share the backfield assignments with Martin, Jack Call and Charley Garavito.

Navy coach Eddie Ederlatz is reported switching player assignments by the teamload. He apparently was not satisfied with the team's 39-14 showing against William and Mary College.

The Middies, a perennial eastern power, boast a strong air-arm in the passing of three quarterbacks, Tom Forrester, Gus Phahalas and Pat Flood.

The other big three squad—Syracuse—will take a week's rest before meeting West Virginia University, Oct. 13 in Archbold Stadium.

Ten other upstate teams will be in action tomorrow including Alfred, possessor of the section's longest winning streak.

Alfred hopes to make Kings Point its 10th straight victim in a night game at Alfred.

Hamilton will be at home to Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The Continentals will be seeking their second of the season while RPI has a 0-1 record.

Rochester and Hobart meet tomorrow at Geneva in a battle of the unbeaten. Other games tomorrow include: Ithaca at Wilkes, Pa. (night), St. Lawrence at Norwich, Vt., Union at Amherst, Mass., Cortland at Bloomsburg, Pa., and Clarion, Pa., at Brockport.

Ben Agajanian Quits Pro Grid

Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—Ben Agajanian, the place-kick specialist, announced today he is retiring again from pro football, mainly because the New York Giants won't let him commute between home and work.

Benb said he wants to be at home most of the time because he now has three children, including a three-week-old son, and because his business, a sporting goods store, demands his time.

Central Recreation League will not bowl on Wednesday, Oct. 10, in deference to the special Kingston Bowling Association meeting that night, Secretary George Robinson said today.

Gulf Cagers Rip Oteora, 81-42

Sharpshooting by Bob Roos and Vince Hainer and a 30-point third period spree enabled Boulevard Gulf of the YMCA "B" League to crush the Oteora Chiefs, 81-42, last night at Boiceville.

Hainer canned 22 points, Roos 21 and John Kelly hit 18 for the winners. Dick Warnes paced the losers with 12. The Gulfmen led 39-18 at halftime before exploding for 30 points in the fourth period.

Gridders Face Heavy Weekend

Kingston High's non-conference game with New York Military Academy tonight at Dietz Stadium kicks off a busy weekend for scholastic gridders.

Biggest game on tap is the DUSO clash between Port Jervis and Poughkeepsie High Saturday at Port Jervis.

Highland High visits Saugerties in a UCAI headliner Saturday. This one could decide the league title. Middletown High entertains Curtis High of Staten Island and Oteora Central is at Guiderlands.

Newburgh Academy travels to Schenectady tonight for a whirl with undefeated Mont Pleasant.

Yankees Bench Carey, Switch Martin to Third

By ED CORRIGAN

Brooklyn, Oct. 5 (AP)—The presence of Jerry Coleman at second base for the New York Yankees in today's second World Series game against the Brooklyn Dodgers is no reflection on Billy Martin who will be switched to third . . . Coleman is the best . . . "In all the years I played alongside of him," said ex-Yankee Phil Rizzuto, "I can't remember a runner ever taking him out on a play when the throw from third base or shortstop was a good one."

Rizzuto, by the way, is acting as a reporter for the Series . . . "How is a sports writer supposed to operate?" He has been asking the slaves of the press box . . . Brooklyn pitcher Don Newcombe, who got an extra day of rest as a result of yesterday's rain, usually likes to go every four days . . . "But my shoulder has been a little stiff lately," he said, "so maybe the extra day will help."

During the season, the records show that he had an extra day's rest 11 times and won eight of them.

That brings up the subject of how the day-off will affect Yankee starter Don Larsen . . . What extra day off? . . . The way Casey Stengel manipulates his pitchers, there is no rotation, such . . . Sal Maglie liked the day off, though, and not because it was going to give the ancient Dodger flinger more time to recuperate from his opening day triumph . . . "I haven't been resting well for the last three or four days," said the Barber, who is really a charming and well-spoken fellow when he wipes off his patented pitching scowl . . . "The phone has been ringing and ringing . . . It gave me a chance to relax."

Brooks' president Walter O'Malley should know plenty of presidential secrets . . . After entertaining President Eisenhower in the opener, he was host to Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson today . . . If Stevenson follows Ike's system, he will not for the Dodgers . . . "Know where I can dig up a ticket for a friend?" joked the harassed O'Malley.

Says Joe DiMaggio: "Power is going to win this Series, not pitching." . . . The one-day Series postponement posed a big problem for hotels which already were filled . . . It also was a boom to speculators who had been having a hard time disposing of tickets to Ebbets Field . . . many out-of-towners who came in for the weekend set at the Yankee Stadium were in the market for tickets for the second game here.

Brook manager Walter Alston still was non-committal about his pitcher tomorrow . . . "I'm not trying to hold anything back," he said . . . "It's just that I really don't know . . . I'm playing this thing from day to day just like I did during the regular season . . . It could be Roger Craig, Carl Erskine or even young Don Drysdale."

Newcombe and Joe Collins are old "friends" . . . In the opening game of last year's Series, Collins hit two straight home runs off Don . . . At that time Collins was plagued by assorted ailments . . . This year, the Yank first baseman-outfielder has been in and out of the hospital with a brand new set of aches and pains . . . could that be prophetic?

Flood Toll 340

New Delhi, India, Oct. 5 (AP)—Official reports said today more than 340 persons died in floods in India during heavy rains in the past six months. The latest count included some 130 deaths in September in floods sweeping wide areas between Calcutta and Lucknow to the north. Calcutta, India's largest city, and the railroad terminal city of Howrah were hit yesterday by a roaring tidal wave that swept down the Hooghly river.

World Series on TV at Mickey's

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 5 — If you need a haircut — but don't want to miss any of the series games because of it — don't fret . . . Mickey's has the game on TV in his Barber Shop daily.

Our hair cuts are same price to both Dodger and Yankee fans so you can come and root for your favorite team as you see fit. (All opinions voiced by our 3 BARBERS on Friday and Saturday as to who will win the series are strictly their own).

MICKEY'S Barber Shop, 50 N. Front St. Phone 3275. Closed Mondays.

An incredible phenomenon took place at Ebbets Field circa 12:20 noon Wednesday. And it must have stunned the veteran World Series fans, ticket scalpers and those unfortunate baseball fans—the salt of the baseball earth—who can't afford to purchase a strip of four tickets and go to the ball park with a prayer and little hope.

While President Eisenhower's stupendous motorcycle escort buzzed around the Ebbets Field rotunda, a startling announcement drifted from out the loudspeakers that blanket all the entrances to the Dodgers' home park.

"Reserved and box seats are now being sold in the main lobby. Ticket holders may use any gate. . . ."

"Reserved and box seats are now"

You could have seen the jaws drop all over the place. The oldest World Series fans could never recall a similar incident at Ebbets Field.

How would you feel if you had purchased a couple of strips at scalper's prices and then find out tickets were still being sold?

Furthermore, there were gentlemen parading in front of the main entrance pleading with you to buy a ticket at the regular price of $7.55.

One gentleman accosted our group and said: "Would you like to buy a ticket, bud?" Just to see the reaction, we snapped "How much?"

"Just the regular price," he said, a middle aged man who said had been disappointed by a friend "who can't make it."

What does all this prove? Simply that the sale and handling of World Series tickets is one of the more sordid aspects of major league baseball. When a loyal rooter, who visits the ball park maybe two, three or four times a year, has his ticket order rejected in the very next mail, he has reason to be bitter. He has to feel even worse when he learns that tickets were still being sold at Ebbets Field 40 minutes before game time and his order had been rejected a week earlier.

The major league owners claim that day-to-day ticket sales is unfeasible and creates unlimited confusion. This is a fallacious argument and, although they plead eternally that every step is taken to keep the tickets out of scalpers' hands, anyone can tell you that's a sheer myth.

There is tremendous glamour in a World Series ball game, especially if it's your first trip to the fall classic. But after 26 years on the sports beat we've come to a not so profound conclusion. It isn't worth it, the haggling, struggling, parking, gouging and inconveniences. We can take it very nicely by a 21-inch screen and a bottle of the stuff that made Milwaukee famous.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

"Bo" Gill of the Newburgh News was busy with his camera during the batting practice and Fred Davi of Kingston was having his picture taken with every Yankee he could corral. . . . Joel M. Kiff Jr. chides us for stating that Mickey Mantle was the fourth player to achieve the Triple Crown (HR, RBI, BA) in major league baseball history. . . . Seems he was the ninth. Joel has a point. But we should have emphasized that Mantle was only the fourth player ever to lead both leagues in Triple Crown totals in one season. Hope that clears up the point. If it doesn't, Joe will have to sue. . . . Bashful fellow that he is, Alex Gerlak neglected to notify us that he had captured the Pro-Am Monday at the MacGregor links at Saratoga Springs. . . . The Twaalfskill Club rings down a highly successful competitive season Sunday with the annual Pro-Member tournament. . . . The department wishes to acknowledge the excellent job Mrs. Robert H. Daley turned in as woman's press agent for golf at Wiltwyck Country Club this season.

Of Men and Mice:

In case you've overlooked it, there is a terrific football game scheduled Saturday at Michie Stadium between Army and Penn State. . . . Third annual Sullivan county deer hunt and archery meet set for Nov. 9-10-11 in western Sullivan county. Nine owners of posted forests are cooperating to make available more than 7800 acres for public bow and arrow hunters during the big weekend. The woods along the Delaware River are overrun with deer this season. Regular deer season is from Nov. 19 to Dec. 4, Catskill area. The hunting terrain will run from Callicoon to Barryville and include Beaver Brook, Lava Ten Mile River, Trusten, Narrowsburg, Cocheton, Yulan and Lake Huntington. Ninety archery clubs in New York state have been invited to send representatives to hunt for two full days and compete for prizes in a regulation 14-course tourney approved by the National Field Archers Association.

This is it department: We have printed several notices in the bowling roundup requesting league secretaries to get scores in no later than 9 a. m. And also have full names for all bowlers. The next scoresheets that fail to meet both requirements will wind up in the waste basket.

Mauhs Reveals Pilot Programs To Aid Hunters

Lake Placid, Oct. 5 (AP)—Conservation Commissioner Sharon J. Mauhs says his department is engaged in "pilot" programs in Oneida and Chenango counties to improve hunting and fishing for the state's "army" of hunters.

Involved in the "pilot" projects are 2,600 acres in Oneida county and 11,000 acres in Chenango county. Mauhs said last night in a speech at the annual convention of the New York State Conservation Council.

To these two areas, he said, "we are bringing to bear the full knowledge of the entire technical staff of the department—foresters, game men, fisheries men, and anyone else who can help."

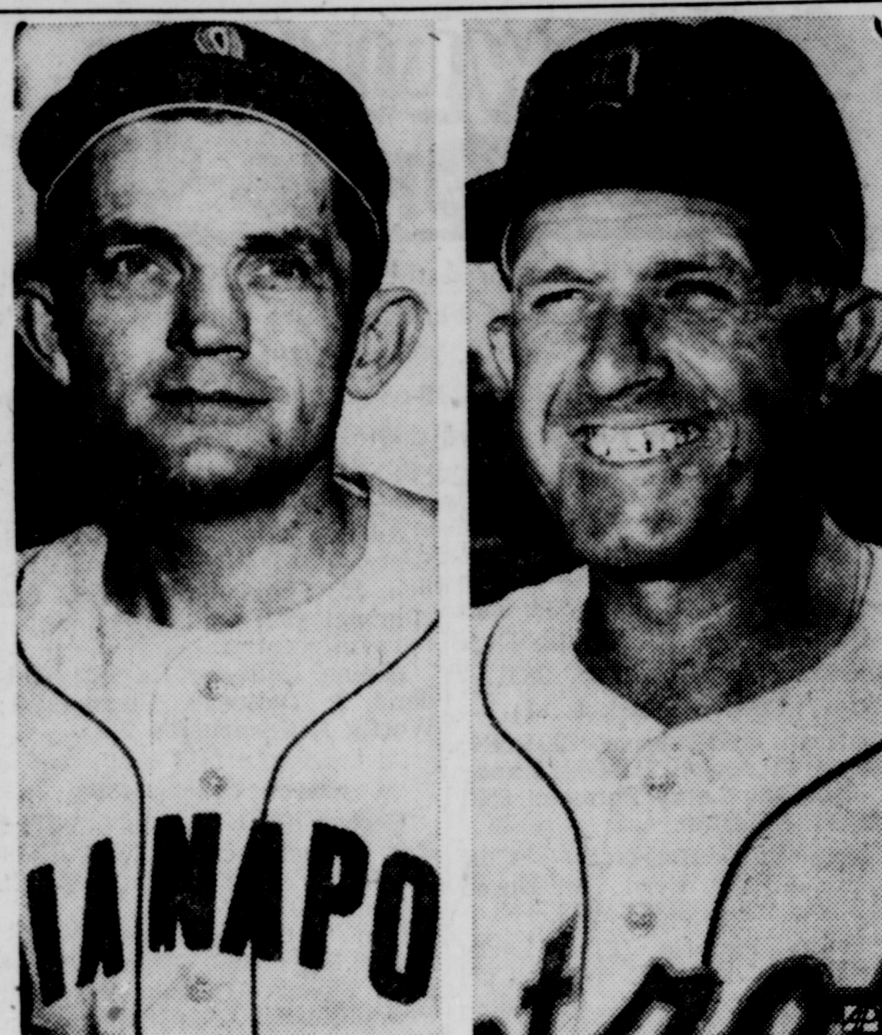

To Stem Shortage

From the experience gained in the pilot areas, Mauhs said, the department hopes it can spread its attack on the state's hunting land shortage. This shortage, he added, has grown more acute each year.

"Fifteen years ago," Mauhs declared, "the State of New York licensed 159,000 regular hunters and 157,000 deer hunters. Last year we licensed 552,000 small game hunters and 419,000 deer hunters."

The increase, he said, has brought on more posting by private landowners.

And although the wholesale purchase of land for public hunting is impractical, Mauhs said, the problem is not insurmountable.

The department's "pilot" programs, he said, are "the first phases of a program we hope will point the way to rich dividends in the future."

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE Fishing Editor

Although I may revise my opinion in the future, for the present I am convinced that a trout accepts an artificial dry fly because a few hackle points have penetrated the surface film.

A trout rejects a dry fly when the entire hackle, or the lower half of same is under water.

And unless trout have keener vision than I think they do, they can't see a floating leader but they can see a submerged leader from certain angles.

A nine-foot 4X leader of mist color is almost impossible to find, but leaders dyed with silver nitrate or red-purple Tintex are slightly more visible in sunlight and less visible when the sun is off the water. Submerged they are plainly visible.

Don't Slap Surface

If any one factor discourages a trout from striking it is the slap of your line point hitting the surface. These pious declarations may fit me for a bed of nails but they are the gleanings of long hours underwater.

To understand angling from the trout's point of view, you must visualize the surface of a stream as a great silvery roof and the water itself a dense world of suspended matter.

You may stand on the bank of a clear stream where you can see every pebble on the bottom for 70 feet or more, but once submerged in the same water, the limits of your vision will vary from five to 30 feet because of the light reflected by organisms and material in suspension.

Sun at Your Back

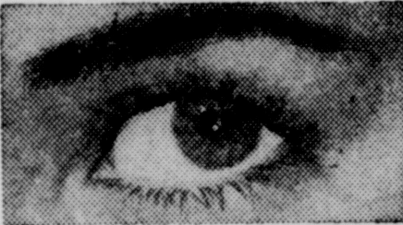

The ideal is to cast with the sun at your back. When this coincides with upstream casting, i.e., with you wading in the area of greatest diffusion and the fish facing the opposite direction, the only way you can spook him is by stumbling or hitting the surface too hard with your line.

Should the fish turn to follow the fly there's little chance that he will see you because his eye has a fixed retina and cannot adjust to light. He is literally staring into a blinding sun with only very near objects identifiable.

10 Meet Death In Auto Crash

Virden, Man., Oct. 5 (AP)—Ten persons, four of them children, were killed in a head-on collision late last night on the Trans-Canada highway 11 miles east of this southwestern Manitoba town. One man survived the crash. He was injured seriously. One woman and four children, occupants of a car bearing a Saskatchewan license were killed. The car belonged to California Standard Oil and was believed to be from the Virden area.

Names of the dead and injured were not immediately available. The two cars met on a curve of the highway. All six persons in the Saskatchewan car were thrown clear. Two of the men in the other car were flung out and the other three were pinned in the wreckage.

Virden is 193 miles west of Winnipeg.

Nose Pulling Out

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 5 (AP)—Peace Justice W. Marion Hendry told two gentlemen of retirement age to stop pulling each other's nose across a fence. C. V. Richardson had brought neighbor Ernie Lawson into court yesterday on a peace warrant, charging Lawson "always wants to fight me." "He kept reaching over the fence and pulling my nose," Richardson told the court.

Harriman Would Publish Report About Welfare

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today urged the state social welfare board to make public reports on the activities of local public welfare agencies.

In a letter to board chairman Samuel D. Magavern of Buffalo, Harriman said "the residents of a community or county whose welfare activities have been studied by the Department of Social Welfare are entitled to know the findings."

Sees Corrective Angle

The governor asserted: "The likelihood that such information given to the public will result in support for constructive moves to correct whatever weaknesses may have been discovered in the welfare administrative structure or in public welfare agencies will be greatly enhanced."

The department has declined to make public its reports on the ground that the decisions should rest with the local welfare agency concerned. However the policy, strongly criticized recently by several newspapers, is up for review at a board meeting in New York city scheduled for Oct. 15 and 16.

The 15-member board sets policy for the social welfare department and selects the social welfare commissioner. Its members are appointed by the governor for five-year terms. Three are Harriman appointees. The rest were named during the administration of Thomas E. Dewey.

Harriman said in his letter that he was "pleased to learn that the board is in the process of reconsidering its policy."

Says Public to Benefit
The governor said that he realized there were "certain difficulties in releasing reports of this character" but that he was "persuaded that the public will benefit if the reports are made generally available."

Citing a "trend in public service... in the direction of making such reports public," Harriman noted that the Correction Commission and Department of Audit and Control had abandoned their practice of keeping inspection reports confidential.

"I believe," said Harriman, "that a similar move by the Department of Social Welfare would be in the interests of the people and would contribute to greater public participation in public affairs."

To Advise on Leisure
Philadelphia, Oct. 5 (AP)—Formation of a new world organization aiming at a more enlightened use of leisure time was announced here last night. It is called the International Recreation Assn., and Lord Luke of Pavenham, the British peer who made the announcement, will serve as chairman of the board. The new organization is an outgrowth of the world service of the National Recreation Assn., sponsor of the International Recreation Congress which is meeting here this week.

WALLKILL NEWS

Church Fair-Dinner Set for Wednesday

Wednesday is fair day in Wallkill, and the big annual event of the Wallkill Reformed Church will begin at 2 p. m. in the Reformed Church hall.

This year there will be servings of the turkey dinner at 5:30 and at 7 p. m., as well as the usual serving of 4:30 p. m. for the workers and early comers.

Mrs. Harry W. Dunn is ticket seller. Anyone who is not contacted may call Mrs. Dunn if they desire tickets.

The kitchen committee headed by Mrs. Herman Mahlandt announces that all pies that have been promised for the dinner be left at the church Wednesday by 2 p. m. if possible.

Her committee is comprised of Mrs. Joseph Morris, Mrs. Adam Ulrich, Mrs. Howard Toller, Mrs. George Wildrick, Edward Lown, Joseph Morris, Mrs. Macey Van Wageningen, Mrs. O. Lippencott, Mrs. Ira DeVoe, and Mrs. Henry Masten.

Co-Chairmen of the dining room committee are Mrs. Samuel Lawson and Mrs. George Crist.

Co-Chairmen of the fair are Mrs. Fred C. Terwilliger and Mrs. Herbert DuBois, who have urged that all donations except perishables be handed in by October 6 or 7.

Donations to be handed to booth chairmen: Kiddie Korner, Mrs. J. McClung; Handkerchiefs, Mrs. Daniel DuBois; Aprons, Mrs. Tillie Seurat; Candy and Cookies, Miss Esther Meredith; Food Booth, Mrs. Hugh Galbraith; Christmas Booth, Mrs. Doris Crowell; Snack Bar, Mrs. Clifford Caswell; Men's Hobby, George Vogel; Special Event, Frances Erick or any member of the Youth Fellowship; Flower Booth, Mrs. F. C. Terwilliger; Bargain Counter, Mrs. B. S. Galloway.

Church Notes
Sunday, 10 a. m. Sunday school in the Church Hall. Superintendent Fred C. Terwilliger presiding.
At 10:45 a. m., elder's meeting at the parsonage with the Rev. Walter N. Van Popering, and at 11 a. m., World Wide Communion will be observed at the Reformed Church morning worship service. The Rev. Mr. Popering will administer the Sacrament with the choir presenting appropriate music.

Sunday, Oct. 21, Laymen's Sunday will be observed. An interesting program has been planned for the occasion.

Home Bureau Unit Discusses Program

The first meeting of New Hurley Unit of the Ulster County Home Bureau was held at New Hurley Church hall Monday, Sept. 24. Mrs. Francis Garrison, chairman, conducted the meeting. The program for the year was discussed.

The program includes lessons on huckwolt weaving and decorative stitching under the instruction of Mrs. Joseph Vogel. The lesson following the business meeting was on making corsages conducted by the leaders, Mrs. Duane Dolan and Mrs. Wallace Palen. After instructions on corsage-making each one present made a corsage with the help of the leaders.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Francis Garrison and Mrs. Grady Hardwick. The New Hurley Unit meets on the last Monday evening of each month. Anyone interested in joining the unit is asked to get in touch with one of the membership committee, Mrs. Larry Dolan, Mrs. Halsey Sherwood, Mrs. Roy Denison, or one of the officers; Mrs. Francis Garrison, chairman; Mrs. Arthur Fox, vice-chairman; or Mrs. Percy Mack, secretary.

Women's Club Meeting

The first fall meeting of Wallkill Women's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Jesse McHugh on Thursday at 2 p. m. Mrs. Florence Delaney of Ellenville a member of Shawangunk Garden Club is to be the guest speaker. Her topic will be "Flowers and Their Arrangements."

The annual gentlemen's night will be held on October 17, at New Hurley Church hall. A roast beef dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. and the program has been arranged for the special entertainment of the men attending.

The tiger snake of Australia and the island viper of Brazil are considered the most poisonous snakes in the world.

This column has often pointed out how foolish it is to double the opponents in the hope of picking up a small extra profit. When West doubled four diamonds in today's hand, he couldn't expect to defeat the contract by more than one trick. The double would therefore produce 100 points instead of merely 50—a gain of only 50 points.

Now let's see what the double stood to lose. South scored 210 points instead of 80. What's more, he had a game instead of merely a part score. The true difference was close to 400 points, all for the sake of picking up an extra 50 points!

West began by taking the top hearts and then shifted to a low spade. The finesse lost to the king of spades, and a spade return took out dummy's ace.

Now South could ruff a second club and could enter dummy twice by ruffing spades to ruff a third and a fourth club. A trump to dummy's ace then allowed dummy to win the last trick with the king of clubs.

No Cause Verdict Returned on Mishap

A verdict of no cause was returned late Thursday afternoon in actions brought by Carl J. Knudsen and his wife Helen L. Knudsen against Otto J. Albrecht and Mrs. Jennie Chafoules, operators of vehicles which were involved in an accident at West Park March 4, 1955. A third defendant, Harold Boice, whose car was also involved, had the action dismissed against him prior to the commencement of trial.

A verdict of no cause for action was returned in the action of Carl J. Knudsen for personal injuries and for loss of services of his wife, and also in Mrs. Knudsen's action which involved personal injuries. Thomas J. Plunkett appeared for plaintiffs and Roy L. Featherstone for Albrecht and Arthur B. Ewig for Mrs. Chafoules.

Trial Photos Allowed

Warren, Pa., Oct. 5 (P)—News photographers are being permitted to take still pictures during a bank holdup trial in Warren County Court. It is believed only the second time in Pennsylvania that a trial judge has granted such permission. Judge Alexander Flick said yesterday that "with modern photographic equipment, there's no noise or anything like that to upset anyone." Judge Flick said he was following procedure of a trial earlier this year in Philadelphia when photographs were first permitted in a courtroom during a trial to take pictures. In both cases, the use of flash equipment was banned.

New Violence Flares

Portsmouth, Ohio, Oct. 5 (P)—New violence broke out in the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. strike last night and resulted in the closing down of the New Boston Exchange for the second time in recent weeks. A group of about 35 men forced its way through a door of the exchange only to retire when two supervisory employees sprayed them with the contents of a fire extinguisher, authorities reported. Similar groups gathered in front of the Portsmouth and Sciotoville Exchanges and threw stones at the buildings, police said. Both New Boston and Sciotoville are Portsmouth suburbs.

Hunter's Body Found

Cohoes, N. Y., Oct. 5 (P)—The body of a 46-year-old hunter was found in woods near his farm home last night. State police said the trigger of Joseph M. Landon's 30-30 rifle apparently had become caught in brush and the gun discharged. The body was found by a brother, Michael.

Why We Say--

LUCKY RABBIT'S FOOT

A POWDER PUFF. Many people today carry a rabbit's foot as a symbol of good luck. The idea got prominent from show business where a rabbit's foot was used as a powder puff. If it was missing before the act, it held up preparations and was troublesome, but if the foot was there, everything could move along as planned.

Adventist Church Slates Services

Sabbath school of the Kingston Seventh Day Adventist Church, 30 Pearl street will commence Saturday with a song service at 1:45 p. m.

Following the opening exercises, classes will separate for the study of the lesson. "Vital Christian Principles Set Forth" is the subject of the study for this week.

Sabbath school will be followed by a mission period with a mission story from the Southern African Division of Seventh-Day Adventist mission work. This week begins a new quarter and the mission offering taken up at the end of this quarter will go to the Southern African Division of work. There are many African young people who are going out as foreign missionaries to other tribes.

In order to enable these workers to do the most effective work and to make their homes models of Christian homes in the communities where they labor, the Adventist Churches all over the world will take an offering the last Sabbath of this quarter and the money received will be sent to help provide them with modest but substantial houses in which to live.

This week the Rev. Jamile Jacobs will preach on the subject, "Needed—Men of Vision." All are welcome.

Dorcas Federation will be held in Poughkeepsie Sunday at 10:30 a. m. A lunch will be provided those attending.

Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30. The deacons will meet at 8:30 p. m. following prayer meeting.

Tells of Killing Aunt

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 5 (P)—A 12-year-old South Dakota farm girl, who said "I must be crazy," told police today how she killed her aunt with an ax after brooding over a missing $5 allowance. The girl, Patricia Corcoran, was held for investigation into the slaying yesterday in the neat stucco home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bunce. Police Inspector Edward Ray gave this account: The girl, one of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Corcoran of Mitchell, S. D., came to the childless Bunce home a month ago at Mrs. Bunce's suggestion. Mrs. Bunce, 55, was William Corcoran's sister.

Dies in Auto Crash

Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 5 (P)—George W. Henderson, 37, was killed last night when his automobile skidded on a curve and crashed near here. Sheriff's deputies said Henderson, a foreman at the International Cooperation Co., Niagara Falls, left the road, knocked down a cement guard post, uprooted a tree and overturned.

Dies as Car Hits Tree

Ovid, N. Y., Oct. 5 (P)—Lawrence A. Fitzpatrick, 20, of nearby Interlaken was killed last night when the automobile he was riding in crashed into a tree in this Seneca county community. State police said the driver, Lawrence Rozelle, 19, also of Interlaken, was in critical condition at Seneca Falls Hospital.

Seven Are Buried

Clinton, N. C., Oct. 5 (P)—The burial of a father and his six children yesterday completed an orgy of murder-suicide which shocked this small farming community Tuesday morning. As thousands watched, 38 pallbearers carried the coffins of Rufus A. King, 35-year-old tenant farmer, and his six children, to their final resting places in the King family burial plot. Six pallbearers carried King's casket. The other were schoolmates of the King children. King, who had been fusing with his wife, flew into a murderous rage at his home and killed his children. He then shot himself to death. His 27-year-old wife, Christine King, was at a brother's house at the time.
